IOWAN SCORES PRESS FOR ITS DRY LAW STAND

Brookhart Charges It Gives "Outlandish" Publicity to "Wet Side"

THREATENS U. S. QUIZ

Others Appear Before Senate Group to Tell of Benefits of Beer

Washington (AP)—Conspiracy by the press in giving "outlandish" publicity to the "wet side" of prohibition was charged in the senate today by Senator Brookhart.

The Iowa Republican, a prohibitionist, had just come from a hearing on beer bills at which Dr. William Gerry Morgan of this city, a former president of the American Medical association, had testified that to allow a 4 per cent brew would provide "a harmless tonic for the sick and improve present conditions among our youth."

Brookhart said he had been told "the Anti-Saloon league and other dry societies refused to buy space" in the newspapers, upon which the papers "turn against them an organized sort of a racket."

"That's the secret of all this wet publicity," he said. "All the press associations are in it alike."

"It is time for them to look into all this unreasonable and disgusting publicity that has been going on."

He added that if they did not, a "congressional inquiry" might be forthcoming.

"We are a nation of bottle-drinkers," said Mr. Morgan. "If the youth and older people were able to purchase good dependable beer a vast majority would turn to this rather than trust the questionable quality of liquor which is now obtained through bootlegging."

Dr. Morgan said he had never taken out a license to prescribe liquor. He looked upon beer as a food tonic, helpful because of its vitamin content, especially for the sick who have temporarily lost their appetite.

The witness got into an argument with Senator Hatfield, Republican, West Virginia, a physician, after testifying moderate drinking of 4 per cent beer would have no deleterious effect.

The senator pointed to the number of cirrhosis cases resulting from taking alcohol.

Dr. Morgan said a person would have to take six quarts of 4 per cent beer daily for some time to produce a liver cirrhosis.

"Seven-eighths of the German people have no cirrhosis," he added amid laughter.

Dr. Morgan said he had observed much drinking in gatherings of all classes of persons in every state over the last two and a half years.

"If the sale of 4 per cent beer were legalized," he said, "this regrettable condition would improve and I believe progressively."

He said he had noticed "liquor on the hip" of many of the younger men and some of the younger women.

Senator Brookhart took exception to the statement and also to liquor drinking being general.

He said he attended a community Halloween party in Evansville, Ind., where 20,000 of the "common people" were present and in a tour of the crowd "saw no sign of drinking."

TELLS OF SLAYING BUT IS BELIEVED INSANE

Fairbanks, Alaska (AP)—Charles Christensen, a prospector found near death from exposure in the woods three weeks ago, told incoherently of having slain his partner to protect his mining rights in the isolated Khatanga district. Officers doubted the story. Weather conditions prevented an immediate check. Christensen was declared insane at a court inquiry.

FOSHAY IS DENIED CHANGE OF VENUE

Court Ready to Consider Continuation of Fraud Case for Six Months

Minneapolis (AP)—A motion for a change of venue made in behalf of W. B. Foshay and H. H. Henley as their retrial on mail fraud charges was begun today, was denied by Judge Joseph E. Moynihan of federal district court.

The court announced that it would consider a plea for a continuance of the case for six months, made by an attorney for the defendants who said that Foshay and Henley are "broke and in debt."

The attorney, Joseph H. Brill, said he would be willing at that time to waive a jury and submit the case on the record of testimony taken in the first trial last fall when the jury disagreed after a week's deliberation.

Foshay and Henley, chief executives in the far-flung Foshay enterprises which went into receivership in November, 1929, were pictured as having exhausted their financial resources during the first trial. Brill said they are indebted to his legal firm.

Present in the courtroom were three of the five men who stood trial with Foshay and Henley last fall. The three have entered pleas of not guilty to one of 17 counts of mail fraud, while two others have entered pleas of guilty. All await sentence in February.

Brill charged newspaper publicity with having made a fair retrial impossible in asking for the venue change.

SENATE TO VOTE ERE NIGHTFALL ON HOOVER PLAN

House Expected to Assure Final Action by Thursday on Measure

Washington (AP)—The senate today struck from the reconstruction convention bill a provision which might have permitted it to take over the business of the $500,000,000 national credit corporation sponsored by President Hoover.

Washington (AP)—Both branches of congress today centered attention on the $2,000,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation measure in an effort to speed it onto the statute books before the weekend.

The senate has agreed to vote on the proposal before adjourning and passage by a bi-partisan majority was assured. The house expected to approve it Thursday and President Hoover probably will lose no time in signing the measure.

Before congress convened, President Hoover called in Ogden L. Mills, undersecretary of the treasury and senate finance experts to attempt to obtain revision of the senate and house bills to conform more closely to administration views.

Meanwhile, another economic measure, one to speed relief to insolvent banks and their depositors through a $150,000,000 corporation, was taken up by the senate banking committee.

At the same time, Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, summoned three witnesses to testify Thursday before a sub-committee on his bill to establish a system of home loan discount banks.

Acts For Revision

An effort to revise both the senate and house bills to create the $2,000,000,000 reconstruction corporation was initiated today by President Hoover at a conference with financial experts.

With the measure holding the attention of both houses and senate and passage in the latter branch imminent, the president called economic advisors to the White House for a conference.

For more than an hour they discussed various phases of the reconstruction program.

Ogden Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, one of the conferees said there were certain objectionable features in the bills before congress and an effort would be made to revise them. He declined to say what provisions in the measures were contrary to Mr. Hoover's ideas.

The other conferees were Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia; Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve board; and Senator Walcott, Republican, Connecticut, author of the senate bill.

Glass conferred with the president separately. He said he had been called in to "iron out wrinkles" in certain legislation and expressed an opinion that the matters could be straightened out. He waited for Walcott and they returned to the capitol together.

ROBBER IN DEFOREST HOLDUP HELD INSANE

Madison (AP)—The state exacted its penalty from the third member of the bandit gang which robbed the Bank of Deforest when Judge S. E. Scholz today ordered James E. Moss, 23, Taycheedah, committed to the State Central Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Waupun.

Two physicians reported to the superior judge that Moss was insane at the time of the bank holdup Dec. 19 and is insane at the present time.

John Schleyer, 28, Fond du Lac, the first of the gang to be convicted, and Herman Ringhand, 26, Fond du Lac, are serving prison terms of 15 to 20 years.

ARE THE GERMANS HIDING SOMETHING?

The big question in the minds of serious thinkers about the foreign situation is what is going on in Germany. Are the Germans as badly off as they would have the rest of the world believe or are they just shamming in order to win more concessions from their neighbors and from the United States?

Time Left To Register For New Lecture Course In Landscape Design

Have you sent in your registration for the lecture course on landscape design, which opens at 7:30 Tuesday evening at Appleton vocational school? If you haven't, you still have a day in which to send it in, or you may clip the coupon on page 4 in the Appleton Post-Crescent and take it with you to the vocational school tomorrow night.

Those who have sent in their registration blanks, but have not yet received their tickets to cover the six lecture series, will receive them when they arrive at the school Tuesday evening. Late enrollments also will be taken at the school before the first lecture gets underway.

This popular course again is being offered here by the Post-Crescent, in cooperation with the vocational school and University of Wisconsin extension division. Many enrollments already have been received from out-of-town people, registrations coming from Neenah, Menasha, Little Chute, Kimberly, New London and other neighboring towns.

This year's course is of wider scope than the one presented at the vocational school last year. It is of a more practical nature than the elementary course offered at that time.

Aust In Charge

Professor Franz A. Aust of the University of Wisconsin horticulture department and official landscaper of the state institution again will be the lecturer.

He will offer as the central theme at each meeting the following subjects: Gardening as Influenced by Design in Nature, making the Design Plan, Making the Planting Plan (two lectures), Potentials for Home Grounds, and Practical Problems in Carrying Out the Planting Plan.

The course is especially designed for the small home owner. It is said to be well adapted to helping the home owner to deal intelligently, artistically and economically with his landscaping problems. Since the basic principles of the various arts are the same, the course is intended to form an excellent background for study of any of the other arts.

Stress is laid on these principles so that the student may appreciate better what is good in design and that he may also create good design.

Sponsors of the course believe that group instruction of this kind is a means of encouraging practical utilization.

Members of the committee are George Hewitt, Milwaukee, chairman; Dr. E. J. Barrett, Sheboygan; John Faville, Menomonie; Walter Gustafson, Washburn and James F. Burns, Milwaukee. Dr. Otto Fiedler, president of the Wisconsin State Medical society, is in favor of giving veterans medical care in their own communities at the expense of the federal government, according to H. L. Plummer, Madison, vice commander.

The executive committee also appointed a sub-committee to meet with members of the legislature to arrange for the erection of a memorial in the state capitol to veterans of foreign wars.

Madison; William Storing, West Salem and Carl Rhodes, Hartford, were named to the committee. Loren Smith, Viroqua, was chosen alternate commander of the La Crosse Seventh district and Charles D. Brown, Oshkosh, was made chairman of the legion state golf tournament to be held in Fond du Lac.

ICE JAM BROKEN TO AVERT FLOOD THREAT

Iowa City, Iowa (AP)—An ice jam which threatened to flood Coralville two miles from here on the Iowa river, was broken today by the use of explosives.

There was no appreciable rise in the river and officials of the Iowa City Power and Light company were confident inundation of the village had been averted.

The ice extended from the dam of the power company at Coralville to within half a mile of Iowa City, and was 12 feet thick in places.

Dynamite blasts Sunday were unsuccessful and firemen and state employees were put to work early today in a further effort to loosen the jam.

Taxicabs Equipped With Machine Guns In Chile

Santiago, Chile (AP)—Machine guns were mounted on a fleet of 100 taxicabs today by the government as 20,000 employees of the Chilean state railways, together with street car employees in Santiago, were ordered out on strike.

Santiago bus men also decided not to operate, for fear of reprisals, although they themselves do not favor the strike. Leaders of the street car employees said they expected their colleagues in other cities in the country would go out on a strike by noon.

HEATED DEBATE IN EUROPE ON GERMAN DEBTS

British Say Conference Is Imperative—French Take Opposite View

By The Associated Press

The British cabinet has reaffirmed its contention that the proposed Lausanne reparations conference is imperative, particularly in view of the German position that she no longer can meet reparations payments. Today's newspapers indicated that the entire press supports the government.

In France the newspapers were behind the French government, supporting the contention of Finance Minister Flamin that if such statements of bankruptcy as that made by Chancellor Brüning of Germany last week are to precede the Lausanne conference, then the conference is useless. Some of the editorials raised the old threat of reoccupation of the Ruhr.

The Brüning declaration sent German bonds down a couple of points on the London stock exchange.

In Berlin the gap between the government and the nationalist opposition has not been closed and Adolf Hitler, the National Socialist leader, has not announced his decision regarding his support for a plan to extend the term of President von Hindenburg.

The board of directors of the World Bank at Basel gave their unanimous approval to the report of the Young plan committee asserting Germany's inability to continue the present reparations schedule. It also renewed the bank's share of the $100,000,000 short term credits Germany now holds.

VIEWPOINT UNCHANGED

London (AP)—The British cabinet met today to discuss the reparations situation but as far as could be learned officially the matter was not carried any further than Premier MacDonald's statement last night saying that Chancellor Brüning's declaration had made a Lausanne conference more necessary.

Today's meeting was originally called to consider the terms of the government's policy regarding the future status of Burma.

The German chancellor's statement concerning his country's inability to pay reparations, however, caused the cabinet members to take the opportunity to consider provisionally this latest phase of the European financial situation.

Another meeting is to be held Wednesday at which both reparations and disarmament are expected to be discussed fully.

FRENCH AROUSED

Paris (AP)—A wave of critical reaction swept France today as a result of Chancellor Heinrich Brüning's declaration that Germany is unable to make reparations payments and it served to speed up Premier Laval's plans for cabinet remodeling.

The reaction most of which was in the premier's favor, included unanimous support from the newspapers, broadcast a suggestion of ways of retaliation against Germany, and new mention of such well remembered war time matters as the occupation of the Ruhr, treaties as "scraps of paper" and reflections on the German republic and the old empire.

The widely read political writer "Perrin" said Germany's new stand was "a deplorable consequence of France's evacuation of the Rhine." The authoritative newspaper Le Temps in a leading editorial said Germany had not changed despite her Republican Democratic label.

The paper warned Germany that such an attitude would kill all confidence in a country "for whom treaties and agreements are only scraps of paper."

Le Journal des Debats said if Germany is not called to account there may be an unpleasant surprise for her at the disarmament conference next month. "The proceedings of German policy do not vary," it added.

PARROTS EXCLUDED AS RESULT OF DEATH

San Pedro, Calif. (AP)—An emergency quarantine was in effect at the harbor today against entry of birds of the parrot family as the result of the death late yesterday of United States Customs Inspector Walter H. Kasper, 35, of an illness diagnosed as yutzakosis or parrot fever. The quarantine order will remain in effect until Washington rules on it.

Snow Falls Over Wide State Area

By The Associated Press

Winter in its more recognizable form came out of hiding over the weekend to remind Wisconsin and upper Michigan that it still lingers.

Snow fell in most sections of the state yesterday and last night, and in several cities was still falling today. The average fall was a little over one inch.

Oshkosh reported that long-waiting residents finally were getting in some ice fishing.

Temperatures generally were rising today throughout the state.

Ashland reported several inches of snow, more than it received during all last winter.

Ironwood, Mich., with a temperature of 5 above, was about the coldest spot in the country today.

Rhinelanders were experiencing snow flurries after a night in which the mercury dropped to 7 above.

A light snow was falling and the weather was mild in Marinette, Fond du Lac and Wausau.

Two inches of snow had fallen in Stevens Point and was continuing.

Twenty-two degrees was the cold est in La Crosse last night, and the snow came in small flurries.

Milwaukee citizens awoke to gaze upon more than an inch of snow today, and the weather man predicted more.

Other Prominent Women Leaders Also Being Dealt by Government

By The Associated Press

Mahatma Gandhi's 69-year-old wife was arrested today with several other prominent women leaders of the Nationalist campaign including the one who is known as Parbatidevi, the "woman dictator." They were advocating nonviolent revolt.

At the same time the government adopted another emergency ordinance prohibiting meetings of more than five persons, thus automatically outlawing gatherings of the Nationalists.

City Prepares for Trial of Four Accused in Murder of Hawaiian

Washington (AP)—The senate today directed Attorney General Mitchell to investigate conditions in Hawaii.

Resolution by Chairman Bingham of the territories committee directing the inquiry was adopted without opposition and without debate.

Bingham in offering the resolution said he did so "on account of the very bad news received yesterday from Honolulu."

The resolution requested the attorney general to report to the senate upon the administration and enforcement of the criminal laws by the police, courts and officers.

It also asked the attorney general to state whether any changes in the organic act governing the island are necessary.

There was no debate. The resolution was approved promptly upon its reading.

Just previously Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, had proposed a senate inquiry.

Promises All Data

Action was taken after Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, had promised a house committee to give it all the information the navy had on the disturbances resulting from attacks on women.

The McKellar resolution, a five point amendment of a committee of five to inquire particularly into the "recent acts of crime committed in Honolulu."

"The revolution asked inquiry into the character and efficiency of all executive officials from the governor down."

"The recent acts of crime committed in Honolulu and in the territory and the attitude of the executive officials of the law in reference to said crimes."

"The attitude of the people of Hawaii toward the navy and its personnel."

In his resolution McKellar said it was apparent that "many revolting crimes have recently been committed in Honolulu and by real efforts have been made by authorities to punish such crimes."

Welcomes Inquiry

An investigation along the lines suggested by Senator McKellar will be welcomed by Delegate Houston of Hawaii.

At the same time, the territorial representative in congress said today he was considering protesting against the attitude of naval officials, although deploring the attack by five natives on the young wife of Lieutenant Massey.

Houston said the five men who attacked Mrs. Massey were "plain gangsters." He added the wife of the naval lieutenant went walking alone late at night in a region frequented by "bootleggers, gangsters and other lawless elements," when she was attacked.

Houston expressed confidence Governor Judd of the islands could handle the matter, adding "I am opposed to the navy taking over the situation, for it could do no better."

Bingham has been in almost constant consultation with the naval authorities on the Hawaiian incident. If resolutions for congressional inquiry were presented Bingham intended to urge that the investigation be turned over to the attorney general.

Shoemaker Confesses Murder Of McLean Girl In Cincinnati

BREAKS DOWN AFTER FACING LENGTHY QUIZ

Charles Bischoff Admits Kidnaping and Killing, Prosecutor Says

Cincinnati, Ohio.—(P)—Robert N. Gorman, county prosecutor, announced early today that Charles Bischoff, 46, a shoemaker, confessed to the kidnaping and killing of six-year-old Marian McLean, whose body was found in his tenement house cellar Dec. 22, five days after she was lured from her play.

Bischoff, who ran from his cellar crying "a child's body is in my cellar," told police at the time he did not know how it got there. He was arrested then and has been held continuously since. Questioning of Bischoff continued intermittently throughout the more than two weeks, but he had steadfastly denied all connection with the crime.

Saturday night, Gorman again began questioning Bischoff and continued throughout Sunday and early this morning, until a signed statement was obtained from him. The child had been dead only a few hours when her body was found. She had died of internal hemorrhages caused by repeated attacks.

One of the greatest manhunters in this city's history followed discovery of the crime, hundreds of policemen joined police in a hunt for the kidnaper who had caused Marian's death.

Marian was led away from a corner near her home Dec. 17, and, according to Bischoff's alleged confession, taken to his room only a block and a half away.

First Denied Guilt. Officers searched his quarters minutely and found signs of the attack on the little girl, which caused her death, but Bischoff maintained they had no connection with her death until early today.

Several men were arrested as possible suspects, soon after the search was begun. Among them was Bischoff.

At the time of the slaying, the child's father, Joseph McLean, was in Cincinnati. He and Mrs. McLean, who lived in Cincinnati, had been separated 18 months.

McLean returned to Cincinnati for a reconciliation with his wife, and for Marian's funeral by airplane. Free transportation was given him by an airplane transport company.

Gorman said he obtained three signed confessions from Bischoff yesterday, but that Bischoff repudiated all of them within a few moments, even though he had written his name under them.

Shortly after midnight this morning, Gorman said, he took Bischoff back to the cellars of his tenement, and Bischoff broke down.

He gave a detailed account of his actions during the five days the child was taken, Gorman said. Gorman said a first degree murder indictment against Bischoff will be sought tomorrow.

An indictment previously was returned against "John Doe" as the child's slayer, but the prosecutor said he wants a new indictment specifically naming Bischoff.

Believe He's Insane. Deputy sheriffs, detectives and police who worked on the case expressed belief that Bischoff is insane.

It is believed that if he is sane he must stand trial for first degree murder. If found insane Gorman said Bischoff probably would be sent to Lima State Hospital for Criminal Insane.

"General" Jacob S. Coxey, 77-year-old crusader for non-interest bearing government securities, is going forward with plans to issue small denomination bonds to be used as currency in Massillon, O., following his inauguration as mayor Jan. 1. He is shown here taking the oath of office from Judge George A. Howells. He plans to issue bonds of 25-cent denomination and up.

Racial Feeling Missing In Hawaii, Bishop States

Honolulu.—(P)—A clergyman, Bishop S. Harrington Littell, stood with public officials today in asserting the absence of racial feeling in Hawaii.

"If Kipling should revisit Hawaii," he said, "he could well add another verse to his poem about the east and west. In Hawaii the Orient and the Occident not only have met but have intermingled. The cultures of the east and the west have produced a new thing on earth. Hawaii is one place where the evils of racial caste have been reduced to a minimum. The best of the east and the best of the west have been welcomed and assimilated."

Previously public officials had said the racial element did not enter into the attacks on white women which culminated Friday in the slaying of Joseph Kahahawai, a young Hawaiian, as one of the attackers. The bishop said that in the islands the Orient and the Occident meet in a manner not duplicated anywhere else in the world. In a thoroughly western environment 135,000 Occidentals and nearly 250,000 people of Oriental ancestry, live, study, work and play together. About half of these former are Americans by birth. The others are developing steadily into English-speaking American citizens. To this civilian population must be added about 20,000 soldiers and sailors.

"Goodwill, unaffected intermingling of races, mutual understanding based on creative Christian influence, brought in by the missionaries of old England as well as New England, are the foundation of the unique conditions found here," Bishop Littell said. "They are carried on with the conviction that this human laboratory may determine how the peoples of the Pacific area may adjust themselves to avoid the mistakes of suspicion and antagonism which marked the progress of history on the Mediterranean and on the Atlantic. Here we no longer study foreign races as foreigners, but as Americans."

The bishop told of a boy who, upon being asked if he was a pure Hawaiian, replied, "No. My father is part German, part Portuguese and part Japanese. My mother is half Hawaiian and half Chinese. I am an American."

He said that at church services yesterday Hawaiians, whites, Japanese, Chinese, Portuguese and other nationalities worshipped together with no sign of racial feeling. The Rotary club, of which he is a member, has various nationalities as members. As a further instance of this lack of racial distinction, he cited the Lions club, which had a Negro president last year.

Reiterating the absence of race consciousness, he told of an English educator who visited here last year. At a school attended by boys of Chinese, Portuguese, Koreans, Japanese, Porto Rican, Hawaiian and English ancestry, he was invited by the teacher to question the class. As the Yorktown celebration was in progress at the time, the educator asked what happened 150 years ago. "We finished licking you," a boy of Chinese ancestry replied.

Bishop Littell spent many years in China as a missionary. He has been in Honolulu for about two years. His diocese has missions among the Chinese, Japanese, Koreans and Hawaiians.

its annual dinner at the Commodore tonight. Of interest to visitors at the show is the increase of speed and power in the new models, particularly in the medium and lower priced makes. Thirty-four models are equipped with power plants developing 100 horsepower or more.

The increase in power is due generally to improvements in manifold and carburation, value construction and timing. For the first time, some of the companies are offering engines with optional compression ratios. Eleven manufacturers, with 28 models, supply this feature.

HOOVER BUSY SEEKING MEN FOR U. S. POSTS

President Delays Action on Two Special Messages to Congress

Washington.—(P)—Busy looking over the field for men to fill important vacancies in the government service, President Hoover has on hand a couple of messages to congress which he will not send up until the time seems right.

They deal with the reorganization of government departments—this object Mr. Hoover has long sought and hopes to achieve under the economy demands of the period—and with the general question of law enforcement. Prohibition does not get special attention in the latter.

The immediate and vital task is to line up successors for Ambassador Dawes at London, Ambassador Forbes at Tokio, and Theodore Roosevelt as governor of Porto Rico. Roosevelt already has been appointed governor general of the Philippines succeeding Dwight F. Davis, resigned. Dawes and Forbes are expected to step out in early spring at the latest.

One aspect involved in the ambassadorships is that both require men of wealth. Over and above the salaries paid, the incumbents normally have to spend around $100,000.

Most interesting development in regard to the reorganization of government departments is a reported lack of enthusiasm on the part of Mr. Hoover for consolidation of the war and navy departments. Reasons given are that it would reduce his circle of cabinet advisors by one; that two men of cabinet ability would be required to run such dissimilar activities as the army and navy; and such men would be harder to attract to assistant secretaryships; and finally that comparatively little departmental machinery could be eliminated by putting the two together.

May Merge Two. Congress, however, spurred by Democratic leaders, is working on bills to effect the junction. Speaker Garner is all for it; Chairman Byrnes of the appropriations committee wrote one of the bills to effect it. In the past creation of a single department of national defense has been urged largely to effect a union of the army and navy aviation activities, making the air force a unit to balance the forces on land and sea.

Ruptured Men Get $3.50 Gift Free

Pay No Money—Now or Ever, for This Gift

Kansas City, Mo.—A splendid useful gift worth many times its $2.50 value to anyone with reducible rupture is now offered free to ruptured men and women. The object is to help introduce more widely a successful improved method for rupture developed by a western doctor. His method does away with leg straps, elastic belts and cruel spring bands. It is easy to use and has proven far superior to common trusses. Many have reported their ruptures better. Often in a very short time. Others say they no longer need any support. The doctor wishes to demonstrate it to 5,000 more men this month. He offers to send it on 30 days' trial and will send the $3.50 gift with the method. After the trial if you are willing to go back to your old truss simply return the method and keep the $3.50 gift for your trouble. The doctor has published a little booklet which tells the truth about rupture, cures and why trusses seldom cure. It also explains his method which will be of interest to every ruptured person. A copy together with his free gift offer will be sent on request. Address Dr. Kaiser, 7464 Koch Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. Adv.

RETAIL CONFERENCE OPENS TUESDAY AT LUNCHEON MEETING

Rotary Club to Sponsor First Session of Division's Two-day Course

More than 60 enrollments, representing almost every business and profession in Appleton, have been received for the retail trade conference to be held here Tuesday and Wednesday under joint auspices of the chamber of commerce retail division, Appleton vocational school, and University of Wisconsin Extension division.

The conference speaker and leaders are Dr. H. R. Doering and Dean Richard E. Ellingwood, both of the extension division. According to the program outline, announced by the retail division, the conference leaders will direct attention specifically to ways of getting more profitable business for stores, making advertising more effective, reducing bad debt losses and collecting past-due accounts.

The conference opens Tuesday noon at a luncheon meeting with the Rotary club at Hotel Northern. Dr. Doering will speak on "Strategy in Granting Credit," giving suggestions on how much credit business should be carried, how merchants and others can select good credit risks and how they can better their collection efficiency.

The first evening meeting at Appleton vocational school will be addressed by Dean Ellingwood. He will talk on "Getting Results from Advertising."

The Wednesday noon meeting at Conway hotel in conjunction with the Kiwanis club luncheon will be addressed by Ellingwood. He will talk on "Using Psychology in Business." The problem of collecting past due accounts will be discussed at the Wednesday evening session at the vocational school with Dr. Doering the speaker.

SALVADOR REDUCES PAY OF ITS EMPLOYEES

San Salvador, Republic of Salvador.—(P)—A 20 per cent reduction in wages for all public employees was announced today. It excepts unskilled workers and privates in the national army and police. An emergency duty on a number of imported articles such as cement, matches, refined petroleum, olive oil, cotton yarns, radios, phonographs, fireworks, perfumes, champagne and other sparkling wines and phonograph records, also was announced.

The first evening meeting at Appleton vocational school will be addressed by Dean Ellingwood. He will talk on "Getting Results from Advertising."

The Wednesday noon meeting at Conway hotel in conjunction with the Kiwanis club luncheon will be addressed by Ellingwood. He will talk on "Using Psychology in Business." The problem of collecting past due accounts will be discussed at the Wednesday evening session at the vocational school with Dr. Doering the speaker.

Common sense and COLDS

When you realize that it is the "ultravirus" (cold germ) infection within the system that produces all the discomforts of a cold, common sense indicates that it must be destroyed and expelled from within.

Bromo Quinine tablets are not merely a relief measure for cold discomforts, they destroy the infection and eliminate the impurities from the system.

Take Bromo Quinine, the proved remedy for colds.

LIVESTOCK GROUP MEMBERS FAVOR SIGNED CONTRACTS

Would Provide That All Shipping Be Done Through Association

BY W. F. WINSEY
Inquiries addressed to officers and members of cooperative livestock shipping associations in the Appleton territory during the past few days reveal a strong sentiment in favor of the associations putting members under a signed contract to do all shipping through the associations. Officers say the signed contract will give the association a greater volume of business, fill cars on shipping days, cut down expenses and increase profits. The individual contracts will be registered in the office of the register of deeds as a notice to livestock dealers of the identity of the members of the associations. It is said that the cooperative law of Wisconsin penalizes a livestock buyer who induces a member of a shipping association to break his contract, as well as the member. For that reason the names of the contract members will be filed in the office of the register of deeds. The contract, however, does not prevent a member of a shipping association from dressing animals and marketing them in cities or villages.

Inquiries showed also that the sentiment among livestock cooperative shippers is strong for organizing a state federation of local shipping associations. The officers and members explain their attitude by saying that a state federation would do work necessary for the associations that the locals acting individually could not do, such as finding the best terminal markets and obtaining minimum shipping rates from railroads, suitable, local stock yards and scales, and getting increased prices of livestock, and legislation favorable to the livestock industry.

At their annual meetings soon to be held, the cooperative livestock shipping associations will consider forming a state federation and placing the members under a signed contract.

WOULD MAKE EFFORT TO FIND VALUE OF FLOOD CONTROL PLAN

Recommend Appropriation of $6,000 to Pay for Survey

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—Despite conflicting needs of water power interests, owners of river bank lands, and navigation interests on the Fox River, all are united in the belief that the improvement best for the community should be supported, according to the report submitted by the rivers and harbors engineers in recommending to congress the appropriation of $6,000 to conduct a survey to determine the practicality of the proposed flood control project.

If a satisfactory plan can be formulated, such improvements are desirable, according to the engineer's report.
Benefits from the proposed flood control project would be primarily local but the federal interests would be furthered to an extent warranting the expenditure of $6,000 to determine the practicality of the plan, the report further stated. This sum would be sufficient to defray the expenses of completing the investigations already carried on and with the data already obtained would insure the full and thorough completion of the report.
Local interests suggest the use of levees with storage reservoirs as necessary for the proposed flood control project on the Fox River, the report states.

Car Owners Without New Licenses After That Date Will Be Arrested

A reminder to Appleton motorists that they must have their 1932 license plates on their vehicles by Feb. 1 is made by Police Chief George T. Prim. Thus far the state legislature has granted no extensions of time for the purchase of new licenses.

All automobile dealers' license plates expired Dec. 31, 1931, and new 1932 plates can be used only on new automobiles, Chief Prim stated. All old cars must carry regular 1932 license plates.
Police throughout the state are authorized to arrest motorists whose licenses are out of date, and the law provides for payment of an informer's fee to persons reporting license plates, according to Theodore Dam-mann, secretary of state.
The deadline for obtaining 1931 licenses was March 15, 1931. This difference is due to advancing the date when 1932 licenses may be used. Formerly any new car bought before Dec. 15 was required to carry a license for the year of purchase. The last legislature changed this requirement, permitting purchase and use of new licenses on Nov. 1 of the preceding year.

DECEMBER BUILDING DROPS TO $48,300

Permits Issued for Construction of Only Two Residences Last Month

Building in Appleton dropped to $48,375 during December, the monthly report of John N. Weiland, building inspector, shows. This amount includes only two houses and six garages, built at a total cost of $7,175. Permits were issued for six residence additions and alterations, $3,400; two mercantile additions and alterations, $7,500; additions and alterations on one manufacturing plant, $30,000; and one miscellaneous structure, $300.

Seventeen building, 10 heating and two sign permits were granted. Mr. Weiland made 108 buildings, 31 heat-ing, and two sign inspections during the month, investigated 29 complaints and calls, and three boiler and heating plant complaints in re-gard to the smoke nuisance. He spent one afternoon with the state inspector, held one meeting of the board of appeals and spent four days on tax books.

TWO COMPANIES TO CONDUCT RESEARCH WORK AT INSTITUTE

Delaware and Pennsylvania Firms to Make Experiments Here

Two leading manufacturing companies have entered into cooperative research projects with the Institute of Paper Chemistry, graduate school affiliated with Lawrence college. It was announced today.

They are the E. I. DuPont de Nemours company, Wilmington, Del., and the Rohm and Haas company, Philadelphia.

The DuPont project is headed by Dr. Samuel Lehner, native of Wisconsin and son of a former professor of chemistry at the University of Wisconsin, the late Victor Lehner. He received part of his technical training at the University of Wisconsin and took his Doctorate from the University of London. He is investigating the cooking of colored rag stocks. Preliminary experiments were conducted at the institute during December. Work will be resumed upon installation of the high pressure steam boilers about Jan. 20. His time will be divided between Appleton and Wilmington, with Steven Kukulich, institute student doing analytical work during his absence.

The Rohm and Haas company, manufacturers of synthetic tanning agents, artificial resins and a variety of other products will conduct experiments to determine their application to the paper industry. Dr. L. C. Sommerville, who received his doctor's degree from the University of Edinburgh, is the first of several company representatives who will come here to study separate phases of the work.

SECOND BABY CLINIC TO BE HELD JAN. 15

The second baby clinic to be sponsored this year by the Appleton Woman's club will be held Friday morning, Jan. 15, at the club, according to Mrs. A. G. Meating, who is in charge of the clinics. Committees to work on the clinic will be chosen later.
These baby clinics are being held for normal children in an endeavor to encourage periodic examination of babies when they are well.

Progressive Chiefs And Governor Confer On Relief Action

NO COMPROMISE SEEN FOR TWO PARTY GROUPS

Predictions Made That Special Session Will Be Ended This Week

Madison—(P)—A conference between governor LaFollette and Progressive leaders in the state legislature was being held in the executive offices today, presumably to determine the next step to be taken by the administration in the deadlock between the senate and assembly of unemployment relief.

The prediction that the special session would end this week was made in various quarters, but there was no forecast forthcoming as to how the differences between the administration and the conservative-independent majority in the senate on the problem of financing relief appropriations would be ironed out, if at all.

Assembled in the executive suite, Governor LaFollette, Assemblyman Robert Nixon, the Progressive floor leader in the lower house, Senator Glenn D. Roberts, a close advisor to the governor, and Senator Thomas M. Duncan, secretary to the executive, were talking things over.

When the two houses adjourned for the weekend the senate had killed the governor's second relief proposal for $10,000,000 representing a reduction of $1,000,000 in the figure first suggested by him.

Nelson Bill Beaten
The assembly had defeated the second compromise by Senator Philip Nelson of Maple, for $7,000,000 approved by the regulars and independents in the upper house.

The senate returns tonight and the assembly tomorrow.

Aside from the dispute as to the amounts proposed and the amount actually needed for relief during 1932, there loomed the controversy between the governor and the senate majority as to the form of income taxes necessary for financing.

Taxation of dividends and levies upon the cash incomes received in 1931 without the deduction of losses suffered by deflation of investment values is the principle to which the governor rigidly adhered in each of his unsuccessful bills.

Increases in the normal income tax, which permit deduction of capital losses and impose no levies on dividends, are the program for which the senate regulars and independents have twice gone on record.

More than a dozen relief bills varying in appropriations from $5,000,000 to $17,000,000 have been defeated or withdrawn in the seven weeks of the session.

There are now two left which appear to have the chance of presenting something which the senate majority will accept.

One is a $7,000,000 bill by Senator J. J. Fellenz of Fond du Lac, the other an $8,000,000 proposal by Senator Walter S. Goodland of Racine.

Senator Herman E. Boldt of Sheboygan Falls, has drawn a plan for the levying of income taxes by counties to raise relief funds and he may introduce it tonight.

Whether a compromise is effected between the progressives and their opponents or not, it is regarded as certain that at least one more relief bill will be passed by the senate.

Relief and reappropriation are the only outstanding issues pending before the legislature. The most liberal guess estimates that the session cannot last much longer.

FLOODS RECEDING IN MISSISSIPPI AREA

Conditions Not as Bad as Painted, Federal Officer Says in Report

Jackson, Miss.—(P)—A report that the Mississippi delta's flood picture is not as gloomy as it has been painted was made public here today by Col. William J. Davis, chief United States army instructor for Mississippi, after a survey for the war department.

Meanwhile, waters in the flooded areas continued to recede and refugees trailed back to soggy farm lands and water-logged homes as the inland lake formed by the overflows from the Tallahatchie river and its tributaries shrank steadily.

But Cross officials of the major cities of the area said they were adequately equipped to handle the existing situation.

Returning here from Tallahatchie, Col. Davis said he had made a boat and motor survey of all threatened towns and villages in the flooded sections.

"Naturally in some sections conditions are more or less acute, but on the whole I found that the people of the flooded sections are meeting the emergency without any outside assistance," he said.

"Though there are thousands of acres of land under water, I found that there was no immense property damage, and no menace to life in any of the flooded areas. Rural residents have neither been ordered nor advised to evacuate the area, and are being moved out only in isolated sections where homes lay in the low lands."

SEEK SON OF MAN WHO DIED AT RHINELANDER

Police here have been asked to try to locate Charles Skubal, whose father has died at Rhinelander. The sheriff at Rhinelander asked police here to attempt to find Skubal, who has been receiving his mail through general delivery at the Appleton postoffice. Anyone knowing of Skubal or his whereabouts is asked to get in touch with the police.

ity in home landscaping and of instilling an artistic appreciation of the landscape art and the out-of-doors. Along with a consideration of the fundamental principles, the course gives a survey of the history and development of the art, and outlines the correlation of this to the other arts. Consideration also will be given to the relation of landscape design to urban and rural life.

Will Outline Plans
As special features of these classes, many stereoscopic pictures will be shown. Sketch plans, designs, and planting plans of home grounds are other means to be used to give each lesson a definite application to the individual problem.

Following each lecture Professor Aust again will give ample consideration to the problems of individual.

MORE STARLINGS ARE FOUND IN VICINITY

A heavy migration of the English starling into this vicinity has taken place recently, Appleton sportsmen report. If the present rate of increase continues all over the country, it is predicted that the United States will be overrun with this bird within a few years. The starling is not considered a desirable bird, as it is a fighter, driving away song birds. A large flock of starlings was seen by an Appleton sportsman yesterday near Stephenville.

FARM LEADERS WILL MEET HERE JAN 13

Select Group Invited to Discuss Farm Marketing Problems

Officers of farm organizations in the county, such as Equity groups, Granges, live stock shipping associations, and breeding clubs, will soon chairmen have been invited to attend a marketing problem meeting at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon at the vocational school.

A select group has been asked to attend, according to Gus E. Sell, county agent, because it is hoped a few, select leaders will permit a general discussion of the problems. Too many persons in attendance would make the meeting unwieldy and there would be very little time for sound argument, it was pointed out.

Among the propositions to be discussed will be cooperative livestock shipping, status of the Cheese Producers' Federation, city fluid milk, pure milk products cooperative association, and national milk pool.

Among the speakers who will lead discussions will be Harry Holmes, prominent in milk pool work, Charles L. Hill of the department of agriculture and markets, and Herman Ihde, state grange master.

RAIN, SNOW ON MENU FOR TONIGHT, TUESDAY

More snow or rain with a rise in temperature is predicted for Appleton and vicinity for Monday night and Tuesday.

Skies will be cloudy over most of the middle west during the next 24 hours with occasional snow flurries or rain, the weatherman says.

Winds are shifting to the south, a good indication that mild weather is on the way.

At 6 o'clock Monday morning the mercury registered 21 degrees above zero, and at noon it registered 36 degrees above.

RAIHLE TRIAL TO OPEN JAN. 25 AT MADISON

Madison—(P)—The trial of former Assemblyman Paul H. Raihle, Chippewa Falls, on a charge of attempted bribery of a state senator will be opened here Jan. 25 with Circuit Judge Robert Cowie, LaCrosse, presiding.

The trial date was announced to the public by the calendar for Judge A. G. Zimmerman's court was completed. An outside judge was called into the case by stipulation of attorneys.

Charges against Raihle grew out of an investigation by a special committee of the 1931 legislature. Raihle is alleged to have attempted to bribe Senator Peter J. Smith, Eau Claire, for his vote on public utility legislation.

BOARD TO MEET

HOLD 2 MEN FOR BREAKING INTO ROYALTON STORE

Admit Theft of Merchandise, Groceries Valued at More Than $250

Jack Meyer, 25, of Lodi, Calif., and Montana, and J. C. Christen, 28, Montana, formerly of Hortonville, are being held in county jail until Waupaca-co authorities can prefer charges of burglarizing the Roy W. Hennick store at Royalton on the night of Nov. 30, taking merchandise and groceries valued at between $250 and $300.

The two men were arrested early Sunday morning by Edward Lutz, undersheriff, Charles Steidl, county motorcycle officer and Walter Gresenz, deputy sheriff, who placed Steidl's car across the road leading to the men's hangout and then rushed them with sawed off shot guns as they stopped their car. In the men's car was a .28 calibre revolver which each made an effort to reach as the sheriff's officers rushed them.

Arrest of the two men followed long investigation as to their activities and a search of their cabin at Stephenville several days ago.

Noticed By Officer
The two first were noticed by Charles Steidl, county motorcycle officer, who saw their car come out of a side road that he knew was used very little. He saw the car several times thereafter.

Investigation revealed the men came to this section late in November and were supposed to cut wood for rent of their shack. However, there seldom was any activity around the shack and their car often was seen on the road late at night.

Saturday night the sheriff's officers went to the shack, saw it filled with merchandise and decided to lie in wait for the men. They placed their car across the road to the shack and when the men drove in rushed them.

The men were brought to the county jail and the officers, with Sheriff Lappen, went to the shack with a truck belonging to Otto Krueger, Stephenville, and brought the merchandise to Appleton.

The merchandise consisted of shoes, leather boots, under wear, butter, jackets and coats, 50 gallons of motor oil, a "ten gallon" black hat, cocoa, canned goods, chocolate, soap, talcum powder, shirts, woolen sox, mittens, belts, and a couple of baby blankets.

On questioning the men admitted they burglarized the store by breaking a lock. They said it was the only job they had done, and they needed something to eat.

The younger of the two men told Sheriff Lappen he'd done a lot of hard work in recent years and it had brought him nothing. After coming to the county he decided he'd live and not work for a while, stealing if necessary, he declared.

Waupaca-co authorities were expected here this afternoon to press charges against the two men.

TWO PIANISTS TO CONTINUE ARTIST SERIES TUESDAY

Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson to Play at Lawrence Chapel

If you want to be reassured that romance has not gone out of art, that technique, platform appeal, and high pressure platform are not the only things that make for success, take a good look at that engaging pair, Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson, who will play here Tuesday night at the chapel, and find out how they came to play two-piano music.

True, they are married; and romance is supposed to stop when housekeeping begins. But they seem to have solved that too. Both of them are wedded to their art before being wedded to each other. One has often heard of an artist, who has sacrificed his—or, more likely, her—career for matrimony. Here are two people who have "sacrificed" two careers for each other; and in so doing have gained fame. Each of them was a rising pianist. But they were newly married, and for one to be playing in London while the other was in Scotland or Ireland was not their idea of life.

What they wanted to do was to play together. They had done it as students; they had opened up a new world for themselves, and they wanted to go on exploring it. And they were separated from each other, each becoming popular as a pianist. But when they met, they played together, uncovering ever new treasures and delighting an eager circle of friends.

And one day, about five years ago, they were induced to play some of their music in public. To their utter surprise they were an even greater success together than they had been separately, so the logical thing was to do more. Both Miss Bartlett and Mr. Robertson continued to fill separate engagements; but their real work was done together; the very thing they loved to do.

Now the great thing about this joint career is that it has resulted in a definite contribution to music. Two-piano music was played, to be sure, but to a large extent only the surface of the literature had been scratched.

They have not only cultivated the existing literature; they have inspired additions to it. Arnold Bax, Arthur Bliss, a composer, Bax, Felix White and other English composers have dedicated smaller pieces to them. American composers, too, have a place in the Robertsons' repertoire, among them Edward Burlingame Hill, Leopold Mannes and Daniel Gregory Mason.

The Robertsons' music cabinet in their St. John's Wood studio in London, full of stacks and stacks of two-piano and four-hand music, is probably the most complete collection of its kind in existence and it is being added to from year to year. Intelligence, research and discrimination have made them the delight of music lovers on two continents.

DRAW JURORS FOR CIRCUIT COURT CASE

Francis Crane vs. Ray Webber and C. N. W. Railroad First to Be Tried

Drawing of jurors for the first case on the adjourned September calendar of circuit court for Outagamie county, completed this morning and taking of testimony in the case is Francis Crane, Appleton, versus Raymond Weber, Appleton, and the Chicago and Northwestern Railway company.

The suit is the outgrowth of an accident Nov. 26, 1930, when a car driven by Weber, accompanied by Crane, was struck by a Chicago and Northwestern Railway locomotive. The locomotive carried the car several blocks. Crane suffered a broken ankle, fractured thigh, broken nose and other injuries, and Weber suffered a fractured thigh and body bruises.

CITY'S BANK LOAN PAID BY TREASURER

Appleton's entire bank loan, amounting to $70,000, was paid off by F. E. Bachman, city treasurer, Monday morning with tax money collected so far this month. Last year the bank loans, which aggregated $220,000, were not paid up until the last of February.

GOING TO MEETING

Louis Luebeck, city electrician, will attend a meeting of the executive committee of the Wisconsin chapter of the Western section of the International Association of Electrical Inspectors in Milwaukee Friday. The convention city for the 1932 annual meeting will be chosen.

POSTMASTERS MEET

Ten members of the Fox River Valley Postmasters club met at Conaway hotel Sunday afternoon to make arrangements for the state postmasters meet here at the hotel next Saturday. Club members constitute the arrangements committee. Other committees are to be appointed this week.

Hawaiian Situation In Brief

Honolulu—(P)—The Honolulu situation at a glance:

1—A city of two elements—white and native—hyetaria-ridden.
2—Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, Mrs. Granville Forester (his mother-in-law) and two seamen agree to submit to civil trial for murder.
3—Three of the four accused are aboard a warship, held by naval authorities "for their protection." Civil authorities agree they are "safer" there.

4—Pastors urge lawful measures and criticize Admiral Pratt for "indorsement of the lynch law."
5—A new grand jury summoned, which will be asked to indict the accused for the slaying of Kahahawai.
6—Governor Judd assembles legislative committees to consider possible reorganization of territorial police.

7—City officials deny navy statements 40 women have been attacked.
8—Women remain behind barred doors, fearing attackers.
9—Heavy police guards patrol the city and riot squads are held ready for any emergency.

10—Mourning by his wailing family and friends, Kahahawai's body is interred—the largest native funeral in years.

City Again Has Largest Legion Post

For the second time in two years, Oney Johnston post of the American Legion has been awarded the Marshall C. Graff trophy for having the largest membership of any Wisconsin post on the first day of the annual mid winter conference.

The conference opened Monday at Madison and the Appleton delegation reported their post had 847 members, a new local record. Fond du Lac, which had given the Appleton vets a battle for several weeks, was second with 803 members and Green Bay post third.

The trophy was up for competition last year for the first time and is the gift of Marshall C. Graff, Appleton, a past commander of the legion. Oney Johnston post won the trophy last year when it reported a few more than 800 members.

Oney Johnston post is represented at the state meeting by about 10 veterans today. Another 10 were expected for the annual dinner to-night at Hotel Lorraine. The conference opened Saturday with a state executive committee meeting. Sunday was registration day and Monday the first formal conferences were held.

Among the speakers on the conference program will be Henry L. Stevenson, national commander of the American legion, Dr. C. A. Dawson, state commander and Governor Philip LaFollette.

THREE GROUPS MEET AT Y. M. C. A. TODAY

Toastmasters' Club Resumes Meetings; Plan City Thrift Program

The first meeting of the Toastmasters' club of the Y. M. C. A. will be held at 6:15 tonight with a dinner at the Y. M. C. A. cafeteria. Talks will be on the Inheritance Tax, by Sarto S. Balliet, and a discussion of Europe with J. G. Mohr, as the speaker. Mohr recently toured Europe.

The club has been in existence several years and formerly was open only to persons who had taken a preliminary public speaking course. It now is open to any member of the association.

Other meetings at the Y. M. C. A. today will include a finance committee meeting at 4:30 this afternoon, at which the 1932 budget will be discussed, and a thrift committee meeting.

The third committee is planning a program to promote thrift during national thrift week next week. Forest Muck is chairman of the committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Conrad, Center-st., attended the funeral of D. A. Collier at Hortonville Sunday.

Mrs. Catherine McGinley has died at East Maitland, N. S. W., at the age of 111.

veto a bill to legalize higher alcohol beer.

"Our president," she said, "is quoted as saying in June 1913, while he was federal food administrator that he did not want to suppress beer making because he did not want to be responsible for a nationwide orgy of hard liquor drunkenness."

"Senators, this nationwide orgy of hard liquor drunkenness, keenly desired over a decade ago by our president, certainly is here!"

Mrs. Brower said 5,000,000 voters, in less than three years had signed the organization's petition to restore beer and wine.

Representative Horr, Republican, Washington, appeared unexpectedly to submit 1913 brewery data from his state, showing $14,000,000 invested, annual business of $11,000,000 and $1,538,000 wages paid 1,064 employees.

He said the people in his state were "fed up on prohibition."

Horr quoted from an advertisement of a grape concentrate made by a firm represented by Mrs. Mahed Walker Willebrandt, saying the product was as "pure as a baby's dream."

"Would you call this Willebrandt stuff legal?" asked Senator Brookhart.

"Anything Mrs. Willebrandt does, I would view with alarm," Horr replied and those in the crowded hearing-room laughed.

"I believe," he added, "that the grape concentrate sale violates the law."

BLAME BACK-FIRE FOR FIRE IN AUTOMOBILE

The fire department was summoned to the Curtis Dean home at 745 W. Prospect-ave at 4:20 Sunday afternoon to extinguish a fire in a Ford coach. It is believed the fire was started by a back-fire from the car. There was considerable damage to the machine.

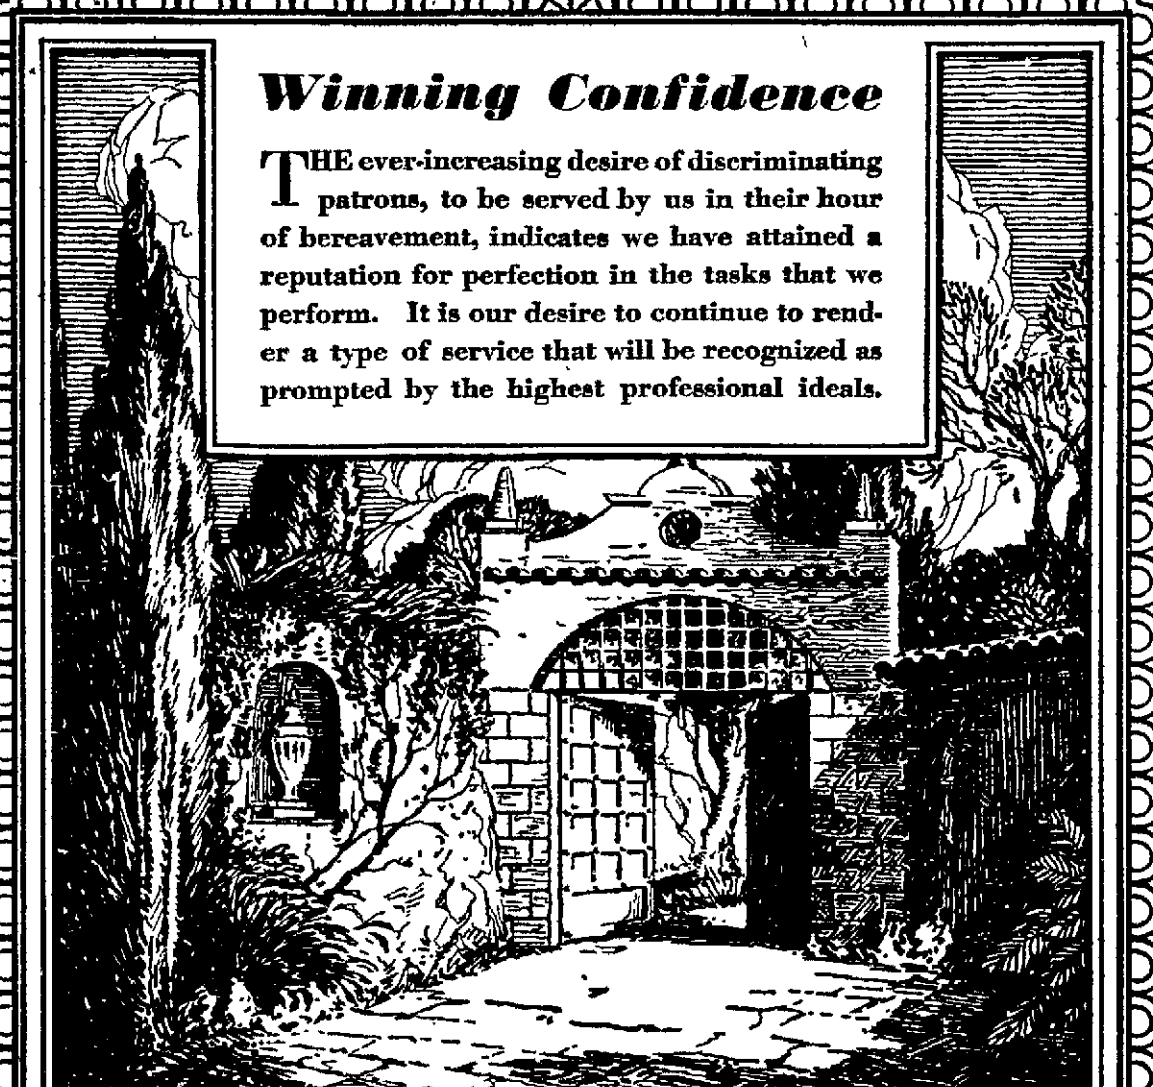

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves
It takes only one bottle of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt's prescription, HEM-ROID, to end itching, bleeding, protruding piles. This internal remedy acts quickly even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and restores the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and cutting fail. Schlitz Bros. says HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile misery or money back. Adv.

START MOVE TO CUT SALARIES OF U. S. WORKERS

446 Badgers, Besides Senators and Representatives, Would Be Affected

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—Many Wisconsin employees of Uncle Sam will receive smaller pay checks if the agitation in Congress for a slash in government pay rolls results in a law cutting the wages of federal workers and officials.

Besides the 11 Wisconsin representatives and two Badger senators whose salaries would be shaved by the proposed cut, there are 446 Badger residents listed among the 38,579 holders of state apportioned civil service jobs. This does not include many other Wisconsin residents holding field service jobs under Uncle Sam, as such jobs are not divided between the states on a basis of population and no record of residence is kept of the holders of these jobs, comprising more than ninety per cent of government workers.

Not all of these Wisconsin holders of civil service jobs stand to receive any pay cuts, however. If any of the pay cut bills becomes a law—many of the workers do not receive salaries high enough to be affected by the provisions of the bills.

One of the bills, introduced by Rep. Ashton C. Shallenberger of Nebraska, for instance, would exempt all government salaries below $2,500 from the cut, but would levy cuts ranging from 15 per cent to 25 per cent on the higher salaries and would subtract $2,500 a year from the pay of senators and representatives.

This would mean a saving of $32,500 a year in salaries paid by Uncle Sam to the Wisconsin delegation alone!

Estimating conservatively that a fourth of the 446 Wisconsin holders of state apportioned civil service jobs draw salaries in excess of $2,500, the passage of the Shallenberger bill would mean a salary loss of at least $375,000 to government workers from the Badger state. This is based on the estimate of a 15 per cent cut to 100 Wisconsin civil service workers receiving salaries of $2,500.

More drastic pay slashing is recommended in other of the bills introduced, however, such as that introduced by Rep. Harold McGugin of Kansas to cut salaries beginning at $1,200. Other sponsors of pay cut bills in the House are Rep. Milton C. Garber of Oklahoma whose amended bill provides for a 10 per cent cut in government salaries between $1,800 and $2,500 and slashes in the higher salaries similar to the provisions of the Shallenberger bill; Rep. Robert E. Rich of Pennsylvania.

In the senate, William E. Borah of Idaho introduced bills to reduce salaries in the higher brackets, cutting the salaries of representatives to $8,000 and other officials in proportion. While the Shallenberger and Borah proposals are so drafted as not to hit Wisconsin government workers in the lower salary scales, the McGugin bill is calculated to cut into the pay envelope of even the low paid federal employees, of whom there are hundreds from Wisconsin.

Also calculated to discomfit the mining of the Wisconsin government worker is the recently announced administration policy to further the regrouping of government bureaus to eliminate overlapping. President Hoover has announced himself in favor of such a reorganization in the interests of economy and efficiency and bills to effect the desired changes have been introduced by Reps. William Williamson of South Dakota and John J. Cochran of Missouri. If the bureau reorganization bills pass, some employees would probably gain more responsibility and others would lose in authority, while some jobs would be eliminated entirely.

Senator John J. Blaine of Besco-bred presented a resolution from the state legislature of Wisconsin, asking congress to enact legislation to prohibit the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine or any other butter substitute in the United States.

In connection with his efforts to curtail the use of oleomargarine in government institutions, Senator Blaine last year compiled figures to show the extent to which butter substitutes were being used in veterans' hospitals and old soldiers homes and had them incorporated in the Congressional Record to show the need of legislation. This year he is again compiling figures with the same end in view and reports that this year's figures will show a decrease in the use of oleomargarine.

Speeding up of the treaty arrangements for the construction of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway was urged in another resolution from the Legislature of the State of Wisconsin, presented by Sen. Blaine. The resolution stated that the waterway would result in a large reduction in freight rates to the Middle west and that the project would give employment to thousands. Congress and especially members of the Wisconsin delegation were urged to promptly ratify any treaty submitted for the purpose of building the waterway and to enact legislation necessary for the beginning of actual construction.

Representative John C. Schafer was dubbed the "new spokesman of the Republican party" by Rep. Adolph J. Sabath of Illinois in a verbal attack on the floor of the house. "It seems to me that the gentleman (Schafer) is now the spokesman of the Republican party. Of course, this was not so some years ago. Then he was a progressive; but now he is a standpatter and a representative of the administration."

"I realize the administration needs as a defender a man who can shout and attack carelessly and viciously at all times."

"The gentleman charges that the Democratic party is responsible for the bonus. Yet it is but a Republican president vetoed it and in every way handicapped the Democratic

New York — (CPA) — Professor Yandell Henderson, Yale physiologist who testified for 4 per cent beer before the senate manufactures committee, is one of the most versatile of scientists. His discoveries and recommendations range from carbon dioxide inhalations for new-born babies, as a substitute for spanking, to chimneys for automobiles rather than exhausts.

It was he who first identified tetraethyl lead in gasoline, when deaths were occurring at the Standard Oil plant at Bayway, New Jersey, in 1924. He fought for free speech during the war, was reproved by the Yale authorities and publicly defended his contention that "the sinking of the Lusitania was chiefly horrible because it was dramatic." In 1912 he was a progressive party candidate for congress. He was chief of the physiological section of the United States war gas investigations. His researches and writings, in addition to physiology, include climatology, proportional representation, anaesthetics and coal mining. He says colleges are getting to be big mass production factories.

Charlotte Pollon's suit for $5,000 against Dudley Field Malone again rings up the curtain on the astonishing adventures of two little girls from Troy, N. Y.

Charlotte and her sister Katherine, who had been the belle of Troy, came to the big, wicked city in 1899. They worked fast. Newspapers splashed the story of how Charlotte had beaten up two maulers in the grand central station. Then it was learned that, before this encounter, she had taken boxing lessons from James G. Corbett. From that on Charlotte and Katherine became both publicity and money addicts. They sued many millionaires — occasionally collecting — occupied many falls, beat up the just and the unjust, flitted through the plot of mysteries, and, in general, followed the career of female cagliostro. In 1904, Katherine sued the Lusitania for $200,000. The suit was compromised for $17,500. Katherine got $7,500 and the lawyers took the rest. Katherine kept right on working. Her last suit having been in 1924 against a millionaire silk dealer.

Naturally the pair went to Paris during the war and got themselves mixed up in spy plot with Raymond E. Swoledge. There is, in the hectic adventures of this pair a suggestion of the earlier careers of Tennessee Claflin and her sister, but the girls from Troy are dumb compared to those brilliant adventurers.

In these big democratic doings at Washington, it is to be noted that the women's wing of the party is led by one who has no patience with the idea that women should just tag along in politics, and not do anything on their own account.

Small, determined, smartly tailored Nellie Tayloe Ross, who is vice-chairman of the national democratic committee, was merely the wife of the governor of Wyoming and then, as governor after his death, she was a highly successful executive, moving swiftly into the stream of national politics under her own steam. Born in St. Joseph, Mo., she met her future husband, William Bradford Ross, in Paris Tenn. He went to Wyoming for his health, opened a law office and went to Omaha and married Miss Tayloe. Their twin boys, George and Ambrose, are grown, and George is a Rhodes Scholar.

Night Coughing Quick and Safe Way to Stop It!

Whatever it is due to—cold, catarrh, dust irritations, or smoking—night coughing can and should be stopped. Nothing wears you out like a night of coughing for it depletes you of needed sleep.

Piso's is especially good for night verbal fits on the floor of the house. It soothes the inflamed tissues better than a spray or gargle. This checks the cough spasm and opens the air passages. Because of its internal effect nothing stops a night cough as quickly and surely as Piso's. At the first sign of a cough keep a bottle of good old Piso's for Coughs at your bedside and enjoy a full night's sleep. Safe to give even to babies, contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach. All druggists sell Piso's.

College Library Is Place Of Study And Recreation

A long, rather classic looking room, filled with tables at which sit diligent students industriously prying into the secrets of Plato and Aristotle, the intricacies of the sciences, of history, religion, philosophy—such is the first appearance of the reading room of the Lawrence college library.

However, the library is not altogether a serious and studious spot. It also has its place as a social center. Groups of students can be seen gathered around a table in some corner, holding softly whispered conversations, and recalling the events of the day. Numerous couples, who find that studying together seems to provide an added incentive for the comparatively monotonous pursuit of knowledge, are also gathered at the corner tables. Fraternity and sorority members grouped together—all of these things account for the popularity of the "lib" as one of the most interesting places on the Lawrence college campus.

For the student who enjoys to delve into the wisdom of past centuries, row on row of books and manuscripts by well known authors and famous authors invite him to examine their contents. One of the interesting additions to the library this year is the numerous "carols"

LAST TWO YEARS TAUGHT LESSON OF INTERDEPENDENCE

Foreign and U. S. Markets Depend on Each Other Says Expert

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
(Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press)

New York—Another lesson of the great securities decline of the past two years is the international interdependence of the markets. That there was such interdependence is something we have always known more or less vaguely but it came with crushing force in 1931.

A lesson we have not learned is that it does not do any good to uncover a scapegoat. It does not make any difference how this interdependence increased during the period of American loans, public and private, to Europe. Whether these loans were justified or unjustified, whether they were made prudently or recklessly, whether the exorbitant profits were made by the distributors, beside the point. It helps no one to belabor the "international bankers" whoever they may be. The only thing that counts is the fact that we know now that the suspension of gold payments by Great Britain, a narrowly averted collapse in Germany and wholesale defaults by South America all reacted adversely on our own domestic stocks and bonds. For better or worse we are involved with the rest of the world and we shall not emerge from our own troubles until we frankly face that accomplished fact.

In the future our investment programs must be made up with the international background in the picture. It is not that business at home is directly affected by events abroad so much as that losses incurred by our financiers and business men in foreign ventures, voluntarily or involuntarily assumed, weaken their ability to support domestic enterprises. This truth is easier to recognize in the markets than it is in life. The modern economic structure is so complicated that it is often difficult to distinguish cause from effect but of this one thing we can be sure, that only disaster can result from ignoring the international trend of events. Isolation may or may not be politically desirable, it is an impossible economic policy.

COMPARISONS HAVE DANGERS

Willis J. Abbot, strong supporter of President Hoover, writing in the Christian Science Monitor, brought to light again a page of the diary of John Hay, Lincoln's private secretary, showing how the President but a short time before the election in 1864 wrote that "It seems exceedingly probable that this administration will not be reelected" and then Mr. Abbot, though declaring it not to be his purpose to draw a parallel between Lincoln and Hoover, portrayed the conditions surrounding Mr. Lincoln's campaign for reelection, the vicious denouncement of him as "the slave hound from Illinois," "the great political shuffler" and that leaders high in the councils of his own party declared, "The people will not support Lincoln's shiftless, heartless, incapable administration," as comparable to prevailing political conditions.

There is not, however, as Mr. Abbot claims, "a striking coincidence" between the political conditions then and now.

There is neither a parallel between the two presidents nor the times they represent.

The fiercely blood-inflamed passions of that fratricidal strife called the Civil war, stimulated to the snapping point by the pall of anxiety that covered the land, daily heightened by fearful casualty lists and the havoc of tramping armies, with possible defeat and ruin and anarchy to face, brought a bitterly vindictive flow of assaults upon the steady and melancholy man in the White House, with his heart in the battle but his brow above even its tumults, that nothing short of a repetition of conditions could delineate.

Mr. Hoover's administration is more nearly comparable with that of the Cleveland administration beginning in 1893, with the exception that, so far as we have gone, the present depression is not nearly as bad and has been much better handled by officials and the people than the one of 40 years ago.

Then nearly half the farms in the country were in foreclosure, millions of workers unemployed, strikes the common order of the day. Not only was the national guard called out but it became necessary for the regular troops to go into action to subdue the anarchy that developed. Millions in property were destroyed. Mobs attacked troops and were in turn shot down in the streets.

As Ralph Thompson in a recent article in Current History describes it, "The Spring of 1894 saw men marching down from New England, straggling across Arizona and Texas, tramping through late snow storms in the Alleghenies," all to join up with "General" Coxey in his march on the capital, a trip that brought Mr. Coxey a jail cell.

That sort of a situation takes a strong man in the White House particularly when there are weak knees in congress. Grover Cleveland was such a man. The people may not have realized it then. They know it now.

1931 NOT A TOTAL LOSS
As 1931 passed out with a hallelujah chorus speeding in on its way as having been a useless adjunct to the calendar, there comes the realization that with its last expiring breath the year presented to the world a gift which has the possibility of becoming a rare heritage.

At the New Orleans meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, announcement was made on the last day of the year that the germ which causes infantile paralysis has at last been isolated, observed and grown in artificial cultures.

Search for this elusive creature has been going on for a long time but it has persistently escaped detection, and continued to walk unseen past the brightest lights and most powerful microscopes into youthful bodies in many an anxious home.

The patient and ingenious strategy of the scientist has now brought it out into the open. Identification makes possible the development of an antitoxin or serum which may class infantile paralysis as a preventable disease.

If parents could be assured that this discovery means the saving of their children's lives or escape from life-long crippledom, the Old Year could hardly have a more cheering accomplishment to its credit.

"ALL THE SAME THING"
There are hundreds of Americans scattered throughout the world, in all capitals and other important centers and far places, from Timbaktu to Tahiti, from the African veldt to the Siberian steppes, from the Andes to the Himalayas, familiar with local languages and customs, for the purpose of gleaning and transmitting to the great news agencies of this country the important happenings that qualify as news.

They are a hardy, patient, persistent, capable set with an esprit de corps worthy of the marines, with honor that fortifies character, unswerving in loyalty to the great trust imposed upon them by millions of readers.

Their difficulties are legion. Their dangers are manifold. Just now both have been magnified by the disturbing condition of affairs everywhere and the determined purpose in some places to prevent America from learning the facts.

One of these reporters, Corey by name, came home recently from a Brazilian prison.

He was arrested there, brought before the police and denounced for sending information "injurious to Brazil." Demanding that the police be specific he was presented with a dispatch addressed to "The Times, London, England," and, since Corey represented only the New York Times, he was sure that that explanation would clarify the case, only to be told by the chief of police:

"All the same. All the same thing. You have the Ford company in the United States, the Ford company in the Argentine and the Ford company in Brazil. The Times of London and the Times of New York must be the same thing."

Dealing with that sort of informed intelligence there was nothing for Mr. Corey to do but take the first steamer north.

And Brazil still insists that it is a republic and is proceeding with an intellectual grasp of its problems.

A RADICAL MAKES GOOD
A former American anarchist and I. W. W. agitator, often in trouble with the police, has made good in a big way. The Soviet government has just announced the appointment of Vladimir Shatoff as assistant commissar of transport.

This man is accredited with several construction accomplishments, notably the building of the 1,000 mile Turkestan-Siberian railroad, and it is in acknowledgment of these services that he becomes one of the elect in the Russian regime.

Somewhere along his devious trail the red mantle of anarchism was cast aside for the garb of a communistic dictatorship as ruthless and as violent in the control of the individual as the most autocratic of czars. For the precepts of anarchism and communism are as far apart as the poles.

Mr. Shatoff's march upward in communism was not made over corner soap boxes or through pathways cleared by exploding bombs. The gentleman himself is humorously ruminative on what actually bases his success. He does not ascribe it to his law-breaking days as a loud-mouthed American "red," but pays tribute to an earlier period when he silently and effectively wielded a pick and shovel in making the dirt fly on the B. and O.

Guiding a pick and shovel combined with some clear thinking is a method of progress as effective in one regime as another. Hard, intensive and constructive work, with an eye always open for the opportunity, is not the particular fetish of communism. It has been known to produce better results under capitalism than anywhere else.

American manufacturing industries spent about $1,500,000,000 for all kinds of fuel in 1929, and in addition purchased electrical energy to the value of nearly $500,000,000, the U. S. Bureau of Census reports.

Tests by the U. S. Department of Agriculture have indicated that traps painted green attract more insects than when painted any other color.

UNCONSCIOUS RAMBLINGS on a quiet Saturday morning . . . why do so few things of interest happen about this time of year . . . how long is a hangover . . . why are lunch hours so short . . . why does the alarm clock always ring an hour too early . . . why do people who borrow cigarettes complain about the brand you smoke . . . did anybody ever keep a New Year's resolution . . . did anyone ever really make one . . . how can people talk so much about the sad side of life . . . and get so much pleasure out of it . . . why do failures always knock successes . . . why doesn't the boss help the return of prosperity by giving us a big raise . . . why don't we shut up . . . question mark . . .

In a Sunday supplement magazine which appears in several newspapers throughout the land, there recently was printed a blurb about a gent on the west coast who has seven pet salmon trout which he has trained to jump through a hoop, eat out of his hand and come to the surface when he calls them. The blurb was printed as up-to-date news. But, somehow, it forgot to mention the fact that the gent in question has been dead for some fifteen years and that his pet salmon trout were executed and eaten back in 1912.

They'll be shooting in some rip-roaring news about how the Germans are advancing into Belgium and about the sinking of the Lusitania, pretty soon.

As if Japan didn't have enough trouble—what with having to beat up American consuls and chasing the Chinese bandits out of Manchuria—now the cabinet quits and somebody tries to blow up the Mikado himself.

And Japan is SO busy ignoring notes and words of warning from the United States, too.

Didja Ever Know About This?
Chicago, despite its record, and New York, despite its record, are not the most murderous cities in the United States. In fact, they can't even be listed among the first THIRTY most murderous cities. The most murderous of the bunch is Memphis, Tennessee, with an average of 9.8 murders per 100,000 people. Chicago has 14.4 murders per 100,000 population. As matter of fact, twenty-five out of the first thirty most murderous cities, are located south of the Mason-Dixon line. Maybe they don't talk about it so much down South, but when they slay, they SLAY!

The story carried by this nuzzpepper on Saturday about the town's bachelors was a good one, but it omitted an important fact. Nowhere did it give an accurate account of how much the unmarried ones were making. And that, dearie, makes a difference.

Leap year may be leap year and all that, but a dollar's a dollar. And, incidentally, even if a dollar does go farther, it's just that much harder to get it back.

CURE FOR THE SULK
Sometimes when I don't play
The way she wants me to
Then Florence May will say:
"All right, I'm mad with you!"
And then she'll sulk and pout
An' next day she pretends
When I come walkin' out
That we're not bein' friends.

But when I get a dime
For lollypops or gum
Or if it's cookie time
An' Mary's given me some
An' I go out to play
Just like I've done before,
Then Florence May will say:
"I'm not mad any more."

It's rather queer to me,
But mother says it's how Things used to be when she
"Was young as I am now,
Her playmate used to cry,
"I'm mad at you," an' then
Candy or cake or pie
Would make them friends again.

Personal Health Talks
By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

NATURAL BREATHING HELPS CIRCULATION
An adult at rest breathes about five quarts of air a minute. In the same time about five quarts of blood will be pumped thru the lungs.

During physical activity the volume of air breathed increases much more than does the volume of blood pumped thru the lungs. With great exertion an adult may breathe as much as fifty quarts of air a minute but in the same time only 20 or 25 quarts of blood will pass thru the lungs.

It is now known that as a rule a given blood corpuscle makes the complete circuit of the circulation in a minute, in man. In small animals the speed of the circulation is greater, say half a minute; in large animals it is slower, in the horse two or three minutes.

In man the factor of dominant importance according to Prof. Vandell Henderson, well known authority on artificial respiration, is the amount of oxygen consumed by the body. This determines the volume of the circulation. In the athlete, as in the patient with heart disease, the limit on physical exertion is set by the capacity of the heart to pump sufficient blood thru the lungs to supply the oxygen required by the active tissues.

Having given the question a quarter of a century of study Dr. Henderson has come to the conviction that the return of the blood from the veins to the right side of the heart is determined by the "tonus" or elasticity of all the muscles of the body which during contraction squeeze or press upon the veins, but especially the muscles of the belly (front wall of abdomen) and the diaphragm. (Prof. Henderson, I regret to note, does not call "belly muscles" but I live in hope that he may learn to use the term).

In this conviction of the distinguished physiologist I find great satisfaction. It seems to fit in so well with the belly breathing exercise which I freely recommend to persons with cold feet, high blood pressure, pelvic and abdominal troubles. I should think it might give some consolation to Dr. Cletia Duer Mosher of Stanford university, and to Dr. I. Rappaport of New York city, and to Dr. Samuel Delano of New Britain, for all of these physicians have advocated a similar natural breathing exercise.

Moderate or everyday exposure to cold normally produces increased pulse rate, and Prof. Henderson observes that presumably the volume of the circulation increases with the pulse. He regards shivering as "exercise tonus." I just mention this as reassurance. Myself, I like to stand reasonable cold, even to the point of shivering a bit, rather than wrap up or turn on the heat; I believe it is better for any ordinary person's health to be a little chilly than it is to be a little too warm.

Anyway, by the careful and deliberate practice of the belly breathing exercise, just for half a dozen breaths two or three times a day, one can improve one's circulation, and that's that. If you want instructions for this, ask for the Belly Breathing exercise and inclose a stamped envelope bearing your address.

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington — While the rest of the country has had its attention centered on war debts, attacks on President Hoover and the like in congress, residents of the capital find themselves concerned with a problem of their own.

And this particular problem is causing more racket in the corridors of the District of Columbia, than all the rest of the doings in congress put together.

A move is underway in the house to impose new taxes on the residents of Washington.

For a long time a special committee of members of congress, headed by the tall and bald Mapes of Michigan, has been studying the fiscal relations between the federal government and the city of Washington. The committee made its report soon after the opening of congress.

Briefly, it recommended that the federal contribution to the District budget be reduced and that new taxes affecting incomes and automobiles, among other things, be imposed.

A Wall Starts
Loud was the wall that went up that congress was trying "to soak" the District. And since Washington is voteless, the old cry of "taxation without representation" was heard on all sides.

The people of Washington contend that a comparison between the city and other capitals is impossible. They argue that Washington's position is unique; that it exists only because the government decided to build here the world's most magnificent capital.

They point out further that Washington has no independent existence; that its resources are largely devoted to supplying the needs of the government.

Debate Is Hot
On the other hand congress insists that the government is and has been most liberal with the taxes of Washington—some say too liberal.

Congressmen are loud in their statements that nothing should be done to delay or mar the progress of the capital, but at the same time they think the people of Washington should share more in civic expenses.

The newspapers lead the fight for the District.

Members of congress reply in open forum in the house. The Congressional Record is filled with language fully as colorful and bristling as that found in the daily press.

Ford may put out an eight. But it's just as well to point out here that probably that will not help the depression, for you can't chew a spark plug.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES
New York — A lady from a far-away province, for whom I obtained show tickets, was interested to learn that she would see Rudy Vallee. She isn't a radio fan, but, of course, she had heard about him. She took a girl who both knew to the theater.

The visitor manifested her enjoyment of the whole performance. When it was over, the girl asked her how she liked Vallee in particular.

"Oh, I forgot to watch for him. But I don't see how I could have missed him," she said, glancing at her program as they shuffled among the crowd in the aisle.

The girl explained that Rudy was the one who did everything except lead a troupe of elephants onto the stage.

"Well, was that he?" was the surprised response. "He must have lost a lot of weight."

The young companion wondered for a moment what inspired this comment, but said nothing more about it.

Several days later, when I saw the visitor, she exclaimed:

"Do you know, I had Rudy Vallee and Paul Whiteman confused all the time!"

Stage Echoes
The name of the Jerome Kern-Otto Harbach musical success recalls another show called "The Cat and the Fiddle," which thrilled the kids of the hinterland years ago. As well as I can remember, it was the first production I ever saw.

Remember it? The infernal regions were represented in its settings, with imps and ghastly creatures cavorting about the stage. Every young fellow in town was stirred by the fantastic posters that were plastered on the stores and barns. It made a one night stand at the opory house two, or maybe it was three seasons.

Those were the days when we used to climb into the buzzards' roost at fifty cents a head and scramble for the hard seats along the front rail.

For the benefit of those who never saw an old road house before it became a movie temple, the buzzard's roost was what they called the second balcony.

I'm told there still may be buzzard's roosts in decrepit road theaters here and there, but they can't get a customer to go up and find out.

Anyway, the days of the old "Cat and Fiddle," them was the days. I would like to feel that wholehearted response to stage hokum just once more.

Rear Door Chivalry
That elderly doorman at the West Forty-third street drive-in entrance of a big department store is interesting to watch. He almost tottles under his years, but maintains a rigid dignity befitting his braided uniform.

His attitude is paternal when escorting feeble matrons and spinsters into and out of their limousines.

We stopped in a drizzling rain to watch him the other day. A little old-fashioned lady fretted in the doorway while he hailed her chauffeur.

While she stepped into her motor, lifting her black dress to the tops of high button shoes, he held her arm and cautioned, "Careful, now, miss—"

PROLONG ARMISTICE
On Jan. 11, 1918, the armistice between the Bolshevik government and the Central Powers was extended to Feb. 12, having been scheduled to end Jan. 12.

The action was effected at the Brest-Litovsk conference. Leon Trotsky, head of the Russian delegation, had adjourned conferences for one day, and returning on Jan. 11, agreed to the extension of the armistice.

Trotsky made a long statement, waiving the demand that the negotiations be resumed at a neutral city.

Continuing, he said: "The Russian delegation cannot deny, and does not intend to deny, that its country, owing to the policy of the classes until recently in power, has been weakened."

"But the world position of a country is not determined by its technical apparatus alone, but also by its inherent possibilities—also, indeed, Germany's economic strength should not be judged by her present conditions and means of supply."

Employment agencies report they are besieged daily for jobs. Yet it's a sure thing that by this time just about every member of our army of unemployed is bulletin bored.

COMMITTEE HAS TWO PLANS TO HELP JOBLESS

Report, However, Is Not Expected for Several Weeks or Months

BY ROLLIN M. CLARK
Copyright, 1932, By Cons. Press
Washington—(CPA)— Although the special senate committee which has been investigating the subject of unemployment insurance will not submit its report for several weeks and possibly a month, it has been learned definitely that the committee will make at least one and perhaps two recommendations looking toward the creation of unemployment reserve funds by industry.

On one proposal the three members of the committee are in complete agreement. That is the matter of encouraging industry to inaugurate unemployment insurance plans by granting, on federal income tax returns, a deduction from gross income of funds set aside for such purposes. Under the treasury's proposed corporate income tax rate of 12 1/2 per cent, this means that the federal government in effect would be contributing one-eighth of the reserve funds. Such assistance would undoubtedly prove a tremendous incentive to the voluntary establishment of unemployment reserve funds.

Another Plan
Another plan of granting federal aid to employers of labor who create such reserve funds has been before the committee. This would involve an actual deduction from the tax payable by a corporation of a specified percentage of the amount set aside by it as unemployment reserves. Thus, if a company puts $1,000,000 into its reserve fund in a stated year, and the allowable credit is 50 per cent, it could deduct $500,000 from its net income in making its tax return for that year. It is not likely, however, that this more generous plan will be favored unanimously by the committee.

A second feature of the forthcoming report may be a recommendation that the various states enact legislation compelling employers to establish unemployment reserve funds on a limited scale, without any contributions by the states. Senator Wagner of New York, who sponsored the resolution under which the committee has been functioning, is known to favor this proposal and Senator Glenn of Illinois has indicated he would approve such a recommendation.

The committee chairman, Senator Herbert of Rhode Island, is inclined to side with his colleagues on this point, although he has not committed himself definitely. He looks upon it as a possible compromise between the two extreme viewpoints: those who wish federal or state unemployment insurance with contributions from the public treasuries and those who favor no legislation at all, leaving it to industry to solve the problem.

STRICT BAN PUT ON ALL GATHERINGS IN CONFLICT IN INDIA

Special Ordinance Prohibits Meetings of Groups of More Than Five

Bombay—(AP)— All meetings of groups of more than five persons were prohibited today by a new special ordinance promulgated by the government and directed against the civil disobedience campaign. The new ordinance automatically outlaws all Nationalist gatherings.

Their activities in other directions paralyzed by the government ordinances, the Nationalists today established what they call a "nucleus parallel government" by inaugurating an independent postal service between Bombay and outlying points.

If this is successful, they said, the service will be extended all over India and letters will be carried at half government rates.

At the same time the Nationalist "war council" announced it would engage in an intensive countrywide campaign to persuade Indians to withdraw their postal savings and bank deposits from government institutions, transferring them to Indian banks. This if successful, undoubtedly would divert from government use millions of rupees.

Over 100 prominent business men of Bombay were invited by Sir Frederick Sykes, the governor, to meet with him "to discuss the present political situation. It was assumed this discussion would have particular reference to the campaign of the Nationalists for a boycott against British goods."

The league of nations established a branch here today for the purpose of strengthening relations between India and the league. The Indian bu-

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

CARD READING AND CONTRACT MAKING

Card reading is one of the most fascinating features of the game of Contract Bridge. To be able to determine after a few rounds of play the distribution of the suits in the hands of your opponents is frequently of almost incalculable value in the making of a contract. The good player almost subconsciously early acquires the habit of mentally noting each card that is played and drawing inferences from it that will aid him in playing not only the key cards of the suit, but the entire distribution of a suit around the table. Sometimes this knowledge is of little value, but, even if it is of no importance on a particular deal, to make it a practice to note the distribution of the suits is good play, because you never can tell when a hand will turn up in which this knowledge is essential to the making of your contract.

Today's hand, played by Mr. Lewis R. Ayres of Philadelphia, is one in which an ambitious contract of six spades was only fulfilled because Mr. Ayres, who held the South hand, was able to utilize the elimination play through his knowledge of the distribution of the suits.

MONEY SMUGGLING BECOMES FINE ART

San Sebastian, Spain—(AP)— Car-men, that alluring operative tobacco smuggler, could have wished for no better accomplices than those who today try to run cash out of Spain.

Since the republic forbade removal of more than 5,000 pesetas (about $500) at a time, customs guards along this border have struggled against new reaches of smuggling ingenuity.

The Cotton Brokers' association unanimously adopted a resolution protesting against Mahatma Gandhi's arrest, which they described as "an insult to the whole of India."

Members of the association were urged to discourage the use and trade in foreign goods and to exclude completely all goods from such countries as oppose Indian aspirations.

They were asked to invest their money in India, for the benefit of local industries and to discourage the export of gold and hold their money in that metal as the best way of preserving the country's wealth.

The resolution called Gandhi "the idol of the whole nation's devotion and love."

Members Of Church Plan Sleighride

FINAL plans for a sleighride party for all members of the Baptist church and their friends to be held sometime this month will be discussed at the meeting of Sir Wilfred Grenfell Mission of First Baptist church at 7:30 Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Schindler, 401 N. Clark-st. Mrs. William Madison will be assistant hostess, and Mrs. Irwin Kimball will be in charge of devotional. Mrs. Wesley Latham will review "The Harvest of the Sea" by Sir Wilfred Grenfell, as a continuation of the study of his life and works. Mrs. Roy Harrison will be in charge of the social hour which will follow the business meeting.

"Temptation" was the topic for discussion at the meeting of Christian Endeavor society of Memorial Presbyterian church Sunday night at the church. Wayne Stevenson was the leader, and 24 members were present. Miss Margaret Holley was appointed chairman of the entertainment committee for the social hour and supper for next Sunday night. The will be assisted by Miss Cecelia Werner and Miss Marion Clark. The refreshments committee included Miss Mary Schenck, chairman; Miss Meredith Bandy, and Miss Beatrice Meyer.

Miss Lucetta Zimmerman was the leader on the topic, "What Shall I Do With My Money," at the meeting of Baptist Young People's Union of First Baptist church Sunday night at the church. The leader discussed "Jesus Had a Lot to Say About Money," "The Lord's Treasury," "I Should Save," and "Spend," and Alan Gerold spoke on "My Money," "My Debts" was given by Miss Marion Zimmerman. Open discussion followed the program. Twenty-one members were present.

All old officers of Holy Name society of St. Mary church were re-elected at the annual meeting Sunday morning at Columbia hall. They are Joseph P. Kerrigan, president; William Ferron, vice president; Lester Balliet, secretary; Donald Joyce, treasurer; and William O'Neill, marshal. About 175 persons received Communion at the 7:30 Mass and attended the breakfast which followed.

The Rev. Anselm Keesee, rector of St. Norbert college, West De Pere, was the guest speaker.

"The World Encircled" will be the topic at the meeting of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary society of First Methodist church at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the church. Miss Elizabeth Wilson will be the leader.

The Missionary tea will be served at 8 o'clock. Mrs. C. O. Davis is chairman of the committee in charge.

Final plans for the skating party at the lake for Wednesday night were made at the meeting of Christian Endeavor of First Reformed church Sunday night at the church. The members will be entertained at a cottage after skating.

Miss Louise Kippman led discussion on the topic, "The Evolution of Love."

Mrs. D. E. Bosserman of Trinity English Lutheran church will attend a meeting of the Wisconsin Conference board Tuesday at Reformation church, Milwaukee. The board will meet to outline the work of Missionary societies in the state for the coming term.

Plans for future meetings were made at the meeting of the Young People's Fellowship group of the Congregational church Sunday evening. Jerome Watts, the scheduled speaker, was unable to conduct the meeting because of illness.

Dr. A. A. Trever led the discussion at the meeting of the Men's club at the Congregational church Sunday morning. Present Political and Economic Conditions in Europe and their Relation to the Problem of Disarmaments was the subject discussed.

Members of the old and new councils of Mount Olive Lutheran church will meet in the church parlors at 7:30 Monday evening. Plans for the quarterly meeting of the congregation, scheduled for 2 o'clock next Sunday afternoon, will be discussed.

The monthly meeting of the Senior Olive branch Walther league of Mount Olive Lutheran church is scheduled for 7:30 Tuesday evening in the church parlors. A social hour will follow the business session. A dart-ball tournament will furnish entertainment.

The Rev. O. D. Cannon addressed the Fireside Fellowship group of the Methodist church at a meeting at the church Sunday evening. Basing his talk on a passage from Mark Connelly's "Green Pastures," he spoke on "The Glory."

About 40 members attended the meeting of the Light Brigade, Trinity English Lutheran church, Saturday afternoon at the church. Elmer Bosserman led the devotional, and the group continued work on their orphans' home project.

The annual birthday party in honor of the sixth anniversary of the organization of C. Y. W. of First Congregational church will be held at 6:15 Tuesday night at the church. Supper will be served and election of officers will take place. Each member will bring pennies to correspond with her age.

Installation of officers of J. T. Reese circle, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, for the coming year will take place at the meeting at 7:45 Tuesday night at Odd Fellows hall. Mrs. Adele Ewen will be the installing officer. Initiation will be held and a social hour will follow.

Mrs. John R. Diderich, 516 E. Franklin, will be hostess to the C. Y. W. of First Baptist church at 7:30 Tuesday night at the church.

Widow Successor

Mrs. Marcell Hendrix, above, widow of the sheriff slain with five others when he attempted to arrest the Young brothers at Springfield, Mo., has been appointed to succeed her husband as sheriff of Greene county, Missouri. She will serve until the next election.

BE OLD MAID RATHER THAN MARRY WRONG MAN, PASTOR URGES

Milwaukee — (AP) — Girls, don't hesitate to be an old maid if the right man does not come along.

That, in substance, was the advice of the Rev. Fred Fahring of the Underwood Memorial Baptist church, given yesterday at the first of a series of lectures in a Y. M. C. A. "Marriage clinic."

"Your life will not be so complete without marriage," the clergyman told a hundred young women, "but you can still be happy. My advice is, don't marry anyone who fails to fulfill your ideal requirements for a good husband."

Qualifications a girl should seek in a man, the minister said, are manliness, clean blood, ability to think, a good family, ambition to succeed and reverence.

Turning to the men, he advised them to judge girls for good health, ability and desire to make an attractive home, ability to cook, love for children and a religious spirit.

TAP DANCING CLASSES OPEN TUESDAY NIGHT

Tap dancing, sponsored by the Appleton Woman's club, will begin at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening at the club under the direction of Miss Ruth McGurk, Lawrence college physical education instructor. Fifteen members are necessary to organize the class under the present plan.

Gymnasium work begins at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at the club, with Mrs. John Mills, woman's club swimming teacher, in charge. Diving will begin at 7:30 Thursday night at the riding academy. All these classes are open to all women and will include between 10 and 12 lessons during the season.

PROM QUEEN AT U. W. HAS BEEN GUEST IN CITY

Miss Louise Dvorak, Berwyn, Ill., whose selection as prom queen of the University of Wisconsin was recently announced by Edwin Kinsey, Elgin, Ill., prom king, is well known in Appleton, as she has been the guest of Miss Louise Marston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Marston, 838 E. College-ave, at various times. She visited here during the past summer and was entertained at several parties. Both Miss Dvorak and Miss Marston are members of Gamma Phi Beta sorority. Mr. Kinsey is affiliated with Sigma Chi fraternity.

MRS. LABUDDE WILL ADDRESS WOMAN'S CLUB

Mrs. Arthur Werner and Mrs. Herbert Satterstrom are in charge of the 1 o'clock luncheon Thursday afternoon at the January meeting of the Appleton Woman's club. Mrs. Edward La Budde, Milwaukee, state chairman, of conservation, is the guest speaker.

Mrs. La Budde, who will discuss conservation problems in the state, will be introduced by Mrs. Max Goeres. Reservations for the luncheon may be made with Mrs. R. N. Clapp, secretary of the club. The business meeting will begin at 2:30. Mrs. J. P. Frank and Mrs. Eric Lindberg will present a musical program at the meeting.

her home. This will be a business and social meeting.

World Friendship Girls of Trinity English Lutheran church will meet at 7:30 Friday night at the home of Miss Mildred Bauer, Hancock-st. This will be the regular monthly devotional and business meeting.

Circle A. of First English Lutheran church, Mrs. Herman Heins, captain, will meet at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Elmer Schabo, 1815 N. Morrison-st. This will be a business and social meeting.

Mrs. Richard Long, route 2, Appleton, will entertain St. Martha Household, Order of Martha, at 1:30 Thursday afternoon at her home. Schafkopf and five hundred rummy will be played after the business meeting.

The Women's Missionary society of Memorial Presbyterian church will meet at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Marion Smith, North-st. There will be a missionary program and social hour.

Swiss manufacturers of clocks, watches and parts are forming a company to control prices and export.

OFFICERS OF CHURCH GROUP GIVEN SEATS

Officers of Holy Name society of St. Joseph church for 1932 were installed at the meeting and breakfast which followed the 8 o'clock Mass Sunday morning at the parish hall. The new officers are: Leo Rechner, president; George Schiedermayer, vice president; Alex Hipp, recording secretary; Oscar Dorn, financial secretary; Clement Schreiter, treasurer; Killian P. Tillman, marshal; and Arthur Tratz, banner carrier.

The Rev. Father Crescentian appointed other officers for the year, and these were also seated. They are John A. Bergman, trustee for 3 years; Ray Lang, secretary; Henry Tillman, song director; and Al Stogbauer, chairman of entertainment and speakers.

The Rev. Conrad Klipp, Kaukauna, spoke on Theresa Neumann, her normal condition and in ecstasy. About 450 persons received Communion and attended the breakfast.

The annual banquet of the society will be served next Sunday at the hall. Tickets, which have been on sale for some time, will be available until Friday of this week. The entertainment committee has planned an elaborate program for the event. All persons who spoke at breakfast meetings during the past year and all members of the Young Ladies sodality of the church will be honor guests at the banquet.

There will be an officers' meeting at 8 o'clock Friday night at the monastery.

MRS. EDWARDS IS MARRIED TO JAMES FORBES

The marriage of Mrs. Effie Edwards, 506 N. Center-st., and James L. Forbes, 543 N. Meade-st., took place at 4:30 Saturday afternoon at the home of the former. The Rev. J. A. Wisconsin Weather

Mostly cloudy tonight and Tuesday; rain or snow Tuesday extreme north portion; somewhat warmer Tuesday, and in northwest and west central portions tonight.

General Weather

Fair weather prevails this morning over the lower Mississippi valley and most of the eastern states, due to high pressure which is centered over the upper St. Lawrence valley. It is much colder this morning in the New England states and St. Lawrence valley. This is followed by a deep "low" over western Canada, which is causing temperatures to rise in the upper lakes, upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys and western Canada, and light snow over the upper lakes region. Mostly cloudy weather, with probably light snow, is expected in this section during the next 24 hours, with rising temperature.

Be Patient When Child Runs Amuck

BY ANGELO PATRI

Children sometimes exasperate us to the point of desperation and we, in a tearing rage, announce some drastic sentence.

"Young man, I've had enough of this. This is no stable where you come for shelter and food. I'll have you know that you'll respect your home and your parents sufficiently to behave yourself like a human being or you're going out of this house and stay out."

"That will be about all from you, young lady. You'll do what I say and that's all about that. If you don't like it you can find some place else. Maybe you can find somebody who will wash your clothes and cook your food and take care of you when you're sick and the rest of it without a bit of appreciation or pay. Maybe you can find somebody who will put up with your carelessness and your impudence. It isn't me. I don't care whether you do or not. Suit yourself. I won't ask you to come back."

Temper! You'll do what I say and that's all about that. If you don't like it you can find some place else. Maybe you can find somebody who will wash your clothes and cook your food and take care of you when you're sick and the rest of it without a bit of appreciation or pay. Maybe you can find somebody who will put up with your carelessness and your impudence. It isn't me. I don't care whether you do or not. Suit yourself. I won't ask you to come back."

Children's behavior beyond your strength by their seeming heedlessness you say the hot words that are going to burn themselves into the minds and hearts of the children long after you have begun to wish you had never said them. These adolescent children who do such silly things, such dangerous things, are not defying you. They are stumbling along as best they can with the light they have. You did not know so much as seven-year-olds do you now at forty-five. Remember.

There isn't one of us, saint or sinner, who has not made mistakes that we want to forget and to have others forget. We didn't grow up full of wisdom. We gave our fathers and mothers and teachers plenty to do to keep us from injuring ourselves and other people. But we forget all that and remember only our present days of strength and knowledge. We lose our tempers and our common sense. We need to keep both.

Whenever you feel like making a drastic announcement go off by yourself and think it all out. Say it all out loud if that helps you any. When you have cooled off think it all over again and always test yourself with the question, "What then?"

After you have sent the child from you what then? Where will he go? What will he do? Then what? Unless you can see two clear steps ahead and both of them good for the child's future, reserve your decision and go on working with him. Keep quiet until you can see one step ahead and then take it and ask again, what then?

There is no final decision rendered in this life. No matter how wise you may be, no matter how deeply you wish to be wise, you will fall short of the truth and your wisest word will not stand up under the test of time. If you were all wise, if you knew what was to happen tomorrow, or even to-night, you might feel free to make final gestures and thundering decisions. But you don't and you can't. The next hour may change all the conditions and bring

Director Says Talkies Have Brought Realism To Movies

BY JESSIE HENDERSON

Copyright, 1932, By Cons. Press

Hollywood — (CFA) — While Ernst Lubitsch paused in his direction of Jeanette MacDonald and Maurice Chevalier who nabbed him long enough to inquire whether the talkies had progressed at all in the past year. And if so, how? Lubitsch wiped his forehead and said they'd progressed fine.

"Five years ago," he said, "such players as Marie Dressler, Lionel Barrymore and Wallace Beery could never have won the following which they have today. That the public places them in the front ranks of its present favorites is a healthy sign."

"What do you mean healthy? You inquired. Because they are not the skinny type?"

"I'm not referring to weight at all," Lubitsch replied. "What I mean is that there's a big change in the public mind which makes the realistic situation a favorite instead of the conventional, happy romantic ending. This was the great advancement in motion pictures during 1931. It was a greater advance than any technical achievement."

"In my opinion, that alteration in public taste is the biggest step the entertainment world has known for many years."

"It is not only an advance artistically, so far as the public is concerned, but it is a splendid thing for the producer and director."

"Emphasizing the realistic instead of the old routine romantic stuff gives a freer rein to the director who hopes to achieve something different."

"You see? No longer do we have to follow a pattern with a 'love' fadeout. We can center on types of characters who are like those in real life. Incidentally, characters of this sort are more of a pleasure to the director who works with them."

Then romance is out? you inquired wistfully.

"Don't be funny," Lubitsch retorted, picking up his megaphone, "romance is never out. What I said was that realism is in."

SPEEDY DETECTIVES

Los Angeles — In a recent holdup John J. Woolard had a $200 diamond ring taken from him. Shortly after, thieves called and offered to sell him the ring for $200, naming a place for him to meet them with the money. Woolard notified police and headquarters dispatched seven detectives to the place the thieves and Woolard were to meet. But they got there five minutes after Woolard, who had his ring but not his $200.

I'VE FOUND THE CANDLE

GLOW TEA ROOM the logical place for the business man to lunch. It has everything in its favor, service, atmosphere and quite important, good food. The special business lunches are appetizing as well as inexpensive and show careful planning. When the tea room itself is enough to entice any appetite with its cheerful tables scattered through the roomy house on W. Lawrence-st. It really is one place in town where a person can relax and enjoy one's meal away from the clutter and bustle of an office or busy store.

HAVE YOU seen the new little ribbon hats at VOGUE HAT SHOP. They're all tucked up and decidedly turban. New straw models just arriving take on a "high hat" effect with an uptilt in the back and tend toward turban and tam effects. One darling in the leading montepul straw boasts a neat little quilt on the side. Montepul is the new shiny straw weave of the season. The racello is another shiny one of fine straw that shapes well to the head and is decidedly there with style.

HAVE YOU read the new charming story of Margaret Ayer Barnes, whose "Years of Grace" is so well liked? You'll find "Westward Passage" with ever so many new books new prints. TREASURE BOX GIFT SHOP Circulating library. Others I'd advise for good reading are "Mourning Becomes Electra", O'Neill's newest masterpiece... A. A. Milne's first novel "Two People"... "Buried Treasure" by Elizabeth Roberts Maddox... and a corking good murder mystery, called nothing else, but "About the Murder of the Night Club Lady."

SAV A gorgeous and inexpensive drip coffee pot at GALPIN'S. It's terrible good looking, squatly with a curved bowl entirely made of aluminum. Both the drip pot and the pot itself has black handles. You see, the coffee is put in the top gadget and then it drips through to the coffee pot, delicious with nary a coffee ground. Really, the thing looks for all the world like a silver coffee service and only $3.95. A graceful addition to any family dinner table.

Another sidelight of the days gone by... one time a certain store had about fifteen yards of taffeta on sale and it all went to one customer for one party frock... today the same given amount would make a woman's wardrobe.

ATTENTION is turned to windows this week at DIDERICH'S where I found gayly spotted curtains in dainty marquisette for kitchen, bedroom and bathroom. They're happy looking these colorful spots on a white background. Some are in geometric patterns while others are scattered helter skelter like bits of sunshine over the marquisette. These dark winter months make an excellent background for new cheery curtains at the windows.

WINTER IS HERE at last it seems... with the snow whirling down around one's head and tucking itself into coat collars and shoe tops... but it's fun just the same even though it means more time to get around to Appleton shops.

SUCH A HUBBUB... never in my life did I see so many people gathered in one place. GEENEN'S challenge sale, of course. You'll find countless bargains from top to bottom of the place and if you'll notice every department in the store is featuring two things... Geenen's famous pure soap and some gorgeous sheets. The soap... 12 bars in a box for 69 cents... is in colors to match your bathroom. One look at the sheets and you'll know you should have at least six... 69 cents each... grand quality... nicely hemmed and plenty large. You see, they originally were over a dollar but having been bought in large quantities especially for the challenge sale, they will cost much less during the sale.

I happened in at the store when hundreds of new dresses were being marked for the sale... all sorts of frocks, for morning, afternoon and evening starting at the sale price of $3.95 right up to the range. You'll find new prints... the dark backgrounds of the new season... bright shades and adorable tailored models in two tones. It will be the wisest thing you'll ever do if you follow the crowds to Geenen's for a look on the big dolings there. I might add that special bargains are offered for each day, things that are of value to every housekeeper.

Speaking of winter reminds me to mention the new evidences of spring springing up in shop windows everywhere... I have you seen the gorgeous new prints and advance spring bonnets?

HAVE YOU ever wanted a lovely silken gown or one of those tricky satin chemise all georgette ruffled or lace trimmed, you know, the sort of gorgeous things that make your feminine heart flutter. Well, now is the time to get some because the place is HERBEN'S HOSIERY SHOP and the reason is that they're on sale, a great lot of them!

Besides this surprise, this shop is featuring a stocking special (you know the quality of Gordon hosiery) with prices that speak in terms of 98c... $1.08 and $1.29 instead of the regular higher numbers!

The old days of puff sleeves and voluminous skirts may be upon us but at any rate there doesn't have to be a law about them like there was in the good old days. In rummaging through old records I read about a city law in 1858 that called for wooden sidewalks at least six feet wide to allow Appleton gentlemen to pass a hopped skirt without going into the gutter!

ELLYN suggests one of her grand scalp treatments for this time of year... especially if you're going to have a permanent sooner or later. Hair needs conditioning and there simply is nothing better than a steam bath or on treatment to stimulate as well as beautify one's hair. You know, you stick your head under a cute little hood, let Ellyn expertly turn on the steam and then you come out-of-the-hood with an exhilarated feeling and hair that falls beautifully into place. Telephone 411.

LAST TIME I was sitting at the office of the APPLETON PURE MILK CO., I found out a startling story on figures! With my own little pencil I worked out the numbers and found that with dairy products as the palatable and adequate and healthful basis of diet, a five person family can be fed on $3.70 per week! The figures are all in black and white and worked out with precision. The venture in economical family feeding would be especially worthwhile if you do it with Appleton pure whole pasteurized milk. If seeing is believing write the company for a booklet on the matter.

PETT'S RUMMAGE sale is perhaps of the oldest institutions in the history of Appleton... it's been going for years and years until it has become as famous as the store. This year promises just loads of goods in every single department... and you'd better bring your shopping basket down bright and early Wednesday morning, the opening day. Unusual values will be offered in gloves and hosiery... tables will be filled with little attractive things from the gift shop... one table will be made especially for bridge prize ideas that will be full of value at a great saving. You see, the idea behind the whole sale is to clear out the present seasonable merchandise before it's too late... none of it is damaged in any manner although many things are reduced from expensive prices because of being slightly soiled. So, save your pennies and make them do big things for you beginning Wednesday at Pettibone's.

It's going to be an easier season on accessories this spring because everything is going combination which means that there will be more colors to match gloves, hose and purses with. However they must be in harmony.

HERE'S your chance to buy all the little gadgets that a good hostess must have anyway... going for a song at IDEAL PHOTO and GIFT SHOP. If you need guest powder buff bowls, bridge sets, tally cards or things of that sort you'll find adorable ones at half price here this week. Stationery... something every woman needs constantly is especially sale strong here. Grand white note paper, letter sizes boxed and in perfect condition. There's a table of Japanese things such as lemon forks and orange knives that looks interesting. For a fact many new boxes were opened for the sale just as soon as they were unpacked Saturday!

FLASHES OF LIFE

By The Associated Press

Atlantic City, N. J. — Mayor Harry Bacharach, staunch Republican, occasionally takes a gambler's chance — but, he says, $50,000 is the limit, particularly when it's for the Democratic fund. He went on his own responsibility for that sum in bidding $200,000 for the national Democratic convention as his backers had pledged only $150,000.

Boston — "Whiners and bleaters defiling the air" is the way William Cardinal O'Connell described radio crooners before a crowd of 3,000 yesterday. And their songs: "A degenerate form of singing, immoral and imbecile slush, a profanation of the name of love songs, ribald and revolting to true men."

Philadelphia — "Be nice to your wife, especially if you are a bootlegger," mused the turnkey last night. He had just locked up James Turner, whose wife showed police a cleverly concealed still when they found him beating her.

Barnard, Vt. — The blanching silence of the snow wrapped north is affording Sinclair Lewis the proper contrast to city bustle. He is resting here, weary from long hours spent on a novel, as yet unnamed, and the theme of which he refuses to discuss.

The Story of Sue by MARGERY HALE

SUE climbed into her car and started the engine. "Wait!" a voice called from the doorway. She leaned out to see who was calling. Perhaps Corrinne's tempestuous mood had passed. Maybe she was really going to apologize. Not that that would help very much now, Sue knew. But it would smooth things over outwardly. It would remove any worry from Mrs. Merriam.

It wasn't Corrinne who came running down the walk. It was Sarah. She was pulling on her coat as she came and her hat, gloves and pocketbook were in her hand. "Lucky I had just used my things on a chair when I came in," she said. "I'm one of the family now, Sue. Tell me what Corrinne did. Anyone with half an eye can tell that she's stirred up this particular kettle of fish and she's cooking them at her own temperature. Your mother knows Corrinne is the youngest in the family. . . she's still much too young for life and living according to her own standards. That's why she can't blame her for anything. What happened?"

Sue was driving fast. Faster than she usually did, although she liked to swing along and feel that she was making time. "If I'm going to be burned at the stake it won't do any good for you to weep over my ashes, Sarah. You're a peach, but this isn't the kind of a story I can tell." "You're going to tell," Sarah insisted. "If you don't you will probably drive into a telephone pole or crash a red light with dangerous consequences just to blow off steam. Go on. Speak up."

Sue told the story. She told it all. She felt better as she talked. But when she finished she hesitated a second. "Will you make a promise, Sarah?" "What is it, Sue. I'll make it if it appeals to me. But I'm not neutral. Get that straight. I'm on your side."

"Thanks. I want you to promise not to make any moves in this mess or say one word about it to my family. Forget it. You see, Corrinne has to make amends without any help. . . if we are ever to patch things up. . . nodded her head. "I guess you're right. All right. But if I see a chance to make things clearer and can't keep from taking it. . . but I know what you mean, I'll not make Corrinne force her hand. Peacemakers never are very blessed anyway. They get their hair pulled and their faces scratched."

It was dark now. Sue turned the car around and started back towards the Merriam residence. Sarah got out and ran up the walk. She started back to town.

Some of the hot anger at Corrinne was growing cooler. But as it cooled it grew harder. She couldn't quite believe that this fiendish attack had come from Corrinne. She wasn't like herself.

The car rolled on. A red light stopped it. She put on the breaks very suddenly. Life was always throwing out red light to make people slow up, she reflected.

The only person who could understand just how she felt was Ruth Bradley. Ruth had been treated unkindly, too. Much more so than she herself had. She started to think about Ruth. She was lovely with the cluster of soft brown curls that waved around her head and the new clothes.

At a crossing a gruff voice called to her. A car had swung close. "Slow down, sister. You're the dame we want, all right."

WE WOMEN By Virginia Vane

CALLING HUSBAND'S BLUFF BY STRAIGHT TALK WITH OTHER WOMAN

Dear Virginia Vane: I have been married for many years and have two grown daughters. My husband is carrying on an affair with an eighteen-year-old girl. I have pleaded with him to give her up—have in fact tried everything, but nagging and quarrelling which I will not do. The girls are ashamed of their father's conduct as everyone in town knows what is going on. I have practically decided to leave my husband and take an apartment for the winter. My daughters agree with me about this. He can be compelled to help support us. Will you tell me what you think best?

ANN.

If you believe that you can give your daughters the proper advantages living apart from your husband this winter—it will be the best thing for all of you to get away from this humiliating experience.

But if there is going to be trouble about money—if you're forcing your girls to sacrifice little comforts of life—then I believe that you should make at least one more effort to keep the home going. And in order to do that, you must speak some unkind words to the eighteen year old siren.

Useless to talk to your husband who is pretty sure of you and who obviously cares nothing for your happiness or peace of mind. But the foolish child who's allowing herself to become the talk of the town, may listen to reason. After all she probably hasn't a clear idea in her head of what it's all about. To her, you're a shadowy figure in the background, not a personality to be conjured with at all.

Why not talk to her? You need feel no great humiliation in doing this. You needn't plead with her or ask her to give your husband back. You can tell her plainly that she is making trouble for herself, and that she will ruin her own life, if she goes on in this way. Ask her whether she wants to marry your husband. Then go home and tell your husband what you've done. Let him know that he's got to come to a de-

Vionnet Blouse

BY ANNEBELLE WORTHINGTON

Of course you'll want one of the new Vionnet blouses.

And isn't this one full of dash and chic

The sharp diagonal closing is decidedly slimming. It seems to run up to meet the softly falling revers that also do their bit in detracting from breath. The sleeves have the deep flared back cuffs, so modish.

It's perfectly dear in eggshell or Lyonnaise-pink crepe satin.

Style No. 3167 is designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 27 yards of 39-inch material.

Crepe silk and metal lame make up splendidly in this model.

Don't envy the woman who dresses well and keeps her children well-dressed. Just send for your copy of our Winter Fashion Magazine.

It shows the best styles of the coming season; also charming gift suggestions in lingerie, pajamas and modern embroidery for the home.

cision. He can't keep up this double life forever.

The chances are that you won't have to leave him, if you take steps to make this blisful love affair, a situation of serious discomfort to both participants.

Hear what Mrs. J. W. has written:

"Dear Virginia Vane: I want to thank you for the advice you gave me in your recent letter. I disliked to see the Other Woman as I felt it put her in a superior position somehow. But I went, and discovered that she was much more frightened than I was. In fact she seemed anxious to get rid of me. But I stayed and told her that she must decide to marry my husband or else leave him alone. I finally extracted the confession from her that she wasn't sure whether she wanted to marry him or not. That night of course I told my husband that I had decided to give him up to the other woman. She obviously had telephoned him in the meantime, and he was frantic with anxiety. He resented having his flirtation spoiled but he was so afraid that he would be forced into another marriage that he admitted to having been a fool, and begged to be taken back. It took him some time to stop being sentimental about the whole thing but now he's definitely over it, thank Heaven, and our little family is more than happy. Thank you for steering me in the right direction."

So, Ann, you may be able to work the miracle, too, without leaving the home you undoubtedly love—and the husband you still care for.

RELAX NERVES BY FLAPPING ARMS AND LEGS

BY ALICIA HART

Have you ever seen a scarecrow flapping its arms and legs in the wind?

Well, if you could flap your arms and legs quite as easily, you would never have much nervous trouble. You probably would sleep like a top, feel like a million on waking up and be happy as a lark. Tense nerves keep many women from being themselves or enjoying life as they should. Moreover, you know yourself how much pleasanter it is to be around someone who is relaxed and merry than someone who either snaps at you or holds herself so rigid you wish she would snap and get it over with.

Once you have learned how to relax perfectly, you will find the greatest relief in what is called the scarecrow dance. The idea of it is to be quite as relaxed as it is possible to be.

After you have lumbered up your arms, legs, trunk and neck, put on a dance record, a slow one; and with every part of you relaxed begin to reel around the room. Let your trunk fall forward and move your lumbered limbs to change its position just in time to keep yourself from falling. Reel sideways, backward, cat-corner, across the room, with your arms and neck so relaxed that your arms swing this way and that and your head wobbles over to one side, then the other, then falls forward, then backward, as your unguided motion takes you this way or that.

A few minutes of this reeling around, provided you keep yourself so limber that you actually do reel, with arms flapping, will do you a world of good. It stimulates circulation and gives you much the same pick-me-up feeling that a nice, hot bath does after a hard day's work or a cat nap before dinner.

This exercise is especially good in late afternoon when the noise, worry, business and hurry of the day has gotten you all knotted up. (Copyright 1932 NEA Service Inc.)

"DOPE?" NOT FOR MY CHILD!"

MOTHERS—here are the vital facts about cough syrups—many rely on DOPE for their results! DOPE means morphine, ether, chloroform, opiates and narcotics.

Don't risk these dope-drugged syrups! Don't do it! You can now stop your child's cough safely. Smith Brothers' Triple Action Cough Syrup contains absolutely NO DOPE (not even a trace!)—no drugs—nothing that could harm a delicate child. Instead of the far more efficient but SAFE principle of "Triple Action" gets rid of the cough quickly, surely and pleasantly. (Pleasantly, because Smith Brothers' tastes good.) Only 35c.

NEENAH LODGE OBSERVES ITS 50TH BIRTHDAY
300 Attend Celebration of Danish Brotherhood and Sisterhood
Neenah—More than 300 Danish members and families and guests gathered Saturday evening at the Knights of Pythias hall on Church-st. to celebrate the golden anniversary of the organization of the order, of which Neenah lodge is No. 2.
The event opened at 6:30 with a goose supper served in the dining room, following the singing of "America" and invocation by the Rev. T. J. Reykidal, pastor of First Methodist church.
After the banquet new officers were seated. The work was conducted by Ralph Rasmussen, supreme treasurer, of Kenosha, assisted by John Johnson, of Appleton, as conductor. The officers for 1932 are: Walter Thompson, president; Emil Danielson, president; Harvey Hanson, vice president; C. C. Steffanson, secretary; William Peterson, treasurer; J. P. Canavan, first trustee; A. Nelson, second trustee; Nels Pederson, third trustee; Torkle Nelson, conductor; George Steffanson, inner guard, and Theodore Jensen, outer guard. The work was conducted in the Danish language.
Before the program, the lodge paid tribute to Henry Hanson, Oshkosh, who is the sole surviving member of the Neenah lodge. He was presented with a gold medal by supreme lodge in appreciation of his long affiliation with the order. Mr. Hanson responded and then was given the rising vote of congratulations by the entire audience.
The first speaker was Andrew Anderson, who urged that more young people be enrolled as members of the Danish Brotherhood to carry on the work started by their fathers, as young life in a lodge carries more interest.
Ralph Rasmussen of Kenosha, supreme treasurer told of the benefits derived by joining such a lodge as the brotherhood. He told of the money handled by him as treasurer and outlined how it was used in continuing the work of a lodge organized 50 years ago.
Lodge Spreads
A few Danish members in five lodges organized the group in the middle west which has now spread to all parts of the country with its 20,000 or more members, he said.
John Tolverson of Fuid, Minn., son of Nels Tolverson and father of Leop Tolverson, all members of the lodge in which they represent three generations, was the next speaker. Mr. Tolverson, who is a trustee of Equitable Reserve association, spoke against "wild cat" insurance companies or "fly by night" insurance schemes, taking for his subject "Good and Bad Insurance." He urged members to hold their lodge policies and to policies in recognized insurance companies as assets for the old age periods. He urged that more young people be taken into the brotherhood to keep the insurance average down and to put new life in the lodge.
M. A. Mickelson of Milwaukee, president of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan district of Danish Brotherhood, spoke on the lodge as a whole, its membership makeup and its affiliation with the church. He urged all Danish men who are not members of the Brotherhood to join as a protection to the family after death. He illustrated his talk with stories.
A Mortenson, who headed a group of Racine lodge members, brought congratulations and good wishes from his lodge which was also one of the five lodges organized 50 years ago and which is No. 4.
Several congratulatory telegrams from other lodges and officers were received during the evening.
William Peterson, treasurer, asked that a survey be made of all Neenah Danish men who have not joined the Brotherhood, and approach them with explaining the benefits of such a membership.
Traces Origin
Emil Danielson, president elect, was in charge of the program and gave an account of the origin of the society for which the celebration was held.
The charter was granted the Neenah representation gathered at Omaha, Neb., on Jan. 2, 1882. Hans Nelson, now deceased, was the first member to be initiated.
Nels Nelson of Neenah was the first treasurer and was at the same time the first supreme treasurer. Nels Holverson, 83, and who was at the celebration, is the oldest member in number of years in the local organization and is one of 12 oldest members in the United States.
The charter list of the Neenah branch included 14 members, all of whom have died except J. Henry Hanson of Oshkosh. They were Hans Nielsen, Nels Anderson, Casper Caspersen, Jacob Anderson, Hans Swendsen, Charles Anderson, Hans W. M. Hanson, Jens P. Nielsen, Casper Caspersen, Charles Moeller, Andrew Mickelson, Fred Nielsen and Hans Jensen.
Besides the Tolversons' three generations represented in the lodge, Casper Caspersen, now dead, and his six sons, were members; William Peterson, his wife and daughter are 100 per cent members of the Brotherhood and Sisterhood.
There are now 119 members in No. 2 lodge, representing $101,250 in insurance. Last year the lodge paid out $160 for sick help and $207.70 for extra work. Contributions toward the five children's homes operated by the Danish Brotherhood, totaled $1,550.88. It was decided that hereafter all lodge meetings will be conducted in the English language.
Following the program there was dancing.

NEENAH SOCIETY
Neenah—A group of 20 people was entertained at the home of Officer and Mrs. Otis Hayes, Main-st., Friday evening. Cards were played and prizes were won by Peter Clausen, Harry Burr and Jack Funke.
The "Tiny Nine" card club was entertained last Friday by Mrs. Harry Farmakes at her home on Monroe-st. Prizes were won by Mrs. H. Peters and Mrs. Otis Hayes.
Licenses to marry have been granted by the county clerk to Cyril J. Potvin and Marie M. Simonson, both of Neenah; and Robert H. Miller of route 2, Fremont, and Marie L. Peterson, route 1, Neenah.
The dancing party given Saturday evening by the high school junior class at the school gymnasium was well attended. The event was termed a victory affair in honor of the school basketball team winning the night before over the Oconto team, the local team's first conference game.
Presbyterian Mothers' Circle will meet at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon at the church. The hostesses are Mrs. Harry Niles, Mrs. Harry Baskin, Mrs. Ernest Parman, Mrs. Mae Nelson and Mrs. Albert Gressler.
Presbyterian Mission Study club will meet at 15 Friday afternoon for the monthly session. Devotional will be led by Mrs. D. C. Jones, the study period to be in charge of Mrs. Wilbur Sparks. Following the meeting the usual missionary tea will be served by a committee composed of Mrs. George Foster, chairman; Mrs. A. Fredrickson, Miss Jean Fraser, Mrs. Philip Grode, Mrs. A. E. Kuehler, Mrs. Nels Matheson, Mrs. James C. Nelson, Mrs. John H. Owens, Mrs. Arthur Sanders, Mrs. Henry Schoman, Mrs. J. A. Thuesen, Mrs. H. E. Wiekert, Mrs. Reinhardt Wiese, Mrs. James Willis and Mrs. Anna Wiekert.
Methodist Philathea Bible class will be entertained at a mothers and daughters' banquet at 6:30 Tuesday evening at the church dining room.
A social event of the week will be the dancing party to be given Thursday evening by the Neenah club at its club rooms. This is the third calendar year on the club's winter calendar. The committee in charge composed of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Aylward, Mr. and Mrs. William Dowling, Mr. and Mrs. William Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bentzen, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dutcher, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hewitt, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ritzer, Mr. and Mrs. James Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Zemlock and Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Pearson.
Activities at the Y. W. C. A. club rooms for the week will start at 4:35 Monday afternoon with a meeting of the club nominating committee, Freshman Girl Reserves and Good Time group.
Tuesday afternoon will be occupied with meeting of the seventh grade Reserves and girls' work committee which will hold a supper. In the evening the Congregational Netpew camp fire group will meet as will the A. V. club.
The new sewing club will meet at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon. The evening program will begin at 6 o'clock with a meeting of the dramatic club, Chorus club, Neenah High School Reserves and Menasha camp fire group.
A special meeting of the Menasha Junior high Reserves will be held at 4 o'clock and a meeting of the Menasha Senior high Reserve social committee.
The Home Women's gymnasium club will meet at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon followed by a meeting of Menasha Junior Reserves and Neenah Eighth grade Reserves. At 6 o'clock the business girls will occupy the gymnasium followed by roller skating. Tap dancing will constitute the Saturday afternoon program with an open house on Sunday afternoon.

LARSON LUNCH TEAM LOSES TO EPWORTHS
Fast Game Ends With League Five on Long End of 19 to 13 Score
Neenah—The Epworth league basketball team defeated the Larson's Lunch team of Neenah Saturday evening at Wesley hall, 19 to 13. The game was a fast one with the Epworths holding their small lead throughout the game.
The Epworths started the scoring with a field goal, the only one made in the first quarter. The quarter ended with them leading 4-1. They dropped in three more in the second period along with two free throws, while the Lunches collected five points on two goals and a free throw. The half ended 12-5.
All that the Lunch team could manage in the third quarter was one field goal, so the Epworths were ahead 14-5 as they went into the last period. Shortly after it began, the Epworths saw their lead dwindle to one point, the count being 14-13, but they forged ahead again, and the end found them out in front, 19-13.

Menasha—The Menasha Knights of Columbus basketball team has completed preparations for a conference tilt with the Sheboygan squad at St. Mary gymnasium Tuesday evening. The Menasha team holds second place in league standings with two victories and one loss.
Weyenberg will start in the center position for Menasha, with Rather and Rammel at forwards, and Anderson and Hoesel at guards.
MENASHA PREPARES FOR TILT WITH BAY FIVE
Menasha—Menasha high school cagers Monday were to begin preparations for a Northeastern Wisconsin league battle with the Sturgeon Bay high school aggregation at Eutte des Morts auditorium here Friday evening. The game will be the second league contest of the season for the Caldermen, who were defeated by the Oconto Falls quint at Oconto Falls last Friday.
Lack of offensive strength was responsible for the defeat at Oconto Falls, and intensive drills in scoring maneuvers will feature scrimmage sessions this week. The Blues were victors in two pre-conference games preceding the holiday recess.
DEDICATE WINDOW IN ST. THOMAS CHURCH
Menasha—A stained glass window in the chancel of St. Thomas Episcopal church was dedicated to the musical genius of the Christian church during the regular 11 o'clock service Sunday morning. The window was given in memory of James Henry Price, Martha Washington Price, George Washington Sheekies, and Algea Alice Sheekies. "The Place of Music in the Worship of the Church," was the topic of the sermon by the Rev. A. Gordon Folkes, St. Thomas rector.

NEW LONDON CAGERS LOSE TO W. DE PERE

Coach Stacey's Team Takes 23 to 15 Trimming from Cahoon Squad

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London — West DePere defeated the New London high school basketball team Friday evening at DePere, 23 to 15. As usual, one of the Van Sistine family was a thorn in the side of the Red and White team. Alternating at forward and center, the West DePere man made 3 of his team's points. Tiny Cahoon's bunch were held at the half to a 12 to 7 score.

During the first half, Van Sistine grabbed the rubbing bottle and, sinking it was water, took a deep whiff. This 70 per cent stuff is, according to Coach Stacey, blamed for the defeat of the locals. "Stub" Brown was high man for the locals, getting four baskets and two free throws. For the rest of the game team went out on fouls, only the persons being committed by both teams. The lineup follows:

START COLLECTION OF ANNUAL TAXES AT KIMBERLY JAN. 12

Village Board Discusses Building Problems Regarding New Village Hall

Special to Post-Crescent.
Kimberly — The village board of Kimberly set the tax collection period for Jan. 12 to Feb. 29, without penalty, at a meeting held recently. The village treasurer, L. O. Mauthe, will collect taxes at the usual places as in former years.

Martin Boldt and Son was paid an additional $6,000 on the new village hall project. William Wenzel was given $500 on the plumbing contract. Representatives of the Minneapolis Honeywell Regulator Company demonstrated heat control on the radiator. This matter will be studied by a committee of the board, the architect and the heating contractor.

The board decided, after a long discussion, to supply temporary heat in the new village hall in order to dry out the building before doing any plastering, which will delay the completion of the project for at least 15 days. The matter of weather-stripping the windows and doors was laid over until the next regular meeting. The question of changing the siren from the rear roof of the new hall was discussed. The advantages of centralizing the siren on a steel tower were many and the board considered the extra cost.

Martin Verhagen, whose term had expired as a member of the Kimberly Community Band commission, was reappointed for a term of three years. The committee on health took of its meeting with Dr. C. G. Maes, health officer, regarding the necessity of drawing up a milk ordinance in the village. The recommendation of the health board is not to govern the milk dealers with an ordinance, but to let them watch over their own business and milk stations and to have milk tested at intervals to guard against impurities and blue milk. Henry Vanden Boogard, secretary of the Kimberly band commission filed his report with the clerk of the village.

John and William Steyvenberg, Sr., left Saturday morning for Muskegon, Mich., to attend the funeral of their brother, Joseph Steyvenberg. From Milwaukee, they traveled by airplane.

The baseball club will sponsor a dance at the clubhouse Tuesday evening. There will be other entertainment, such as bingo, fortune wheel and refreshments.

Capt. Pope is now assistant chief of the bureau of navigation and has been making his home in Washington since 1929.

Capt. Watson, whom Capt. Pope succeeds, will be promoted to the rank of rear admiral.

MANAWA TEAM UNDEFEATED IN CAGING LEAGUE

Cinches Lead by Overwhelming Waupaca Quintet by Score of 28 to 6

Special to Post-Crescent.
CENTRAL WISCONSIN STANDINGS

	W.	L.	Pct.
Manawa	3	0	1.000
Amherst	2	1	.667
Waupaca	1	2	.333
Iola	1	2	.333
Weyauwega	1	3	.250

Manawa — Manawa high school won its fifth straight game and its third successive Central Wisconsin conference victory by defeating Waupaca 28 to 6 at the armory in that city Friday evening. The home team held the Wolves to a 5 to 5 score at the half, but Manawa came back with a rush in the final two periods to overwhelm the county seat quintet. Waupaca counted only a free throw in the entire last half.

Glocke, junior forward, who has been improving at a rapid rate in recent games, sank seven field goals for Manawa and was high point man of the game. Lindow gathered three field goals and as many free throws from a guard position. Waupaca made out two field goals, both by Henry Johnson in the first quarter, on long attempts from mid-floor. Manawa, league leader, meets Amherst, holder of second place, on the local floor next Friday. Iola defeated Weyauwega 11 to 9 in the only other league contest last week.

200 Attend Meet
Nearly 200 farmers in central Waupaca county attended a meeting in the town hall at Symco, Thursday evening. Fred Oppert acted as chairman and Alvin A. Handrich as secretary.

A talk on livestock shipping was made by A. C. Hoffmann of the University of Wisconsin department of agriculture. He gave figures on the most economical way of shipping as compiled by the state department. R. E. Fisher of the department of markets discussed livestock shipping contracts, after which an open discussion took place.

Following this the following resolution was presented and adopted: Be it resolved, that this meeting of farmers go on record as being in favor of meeting once each month to study various problems, and that a committee of eight be appointed to study the most important topics and report at the next meeting. Named on the committee were Alvin A. Handrich, William Gehlke, Richard Fietzer, Fred Mueske, Gust. Fietzer, Irvin Schoen, Fred Lang and Matt. Kellen.

Another resolution presented by Alvin A. Handrich and then adopted read: Be it resolved that this meeting appoint a committee of five to further study the livestock shipping contract and thoroughly investigate this movement. The committee is composed of William Feathers, Henry Split, Albert Abraham, Edward Yohr and Adam Schilder.

Explains Petition
In a discussion on telephone rates the secretary explained the petition that had been signed by numerous rural subscribers asking for a reduction in rates. L. M. Lamkins, manager of the Manawa Telephone company, explained the situation very thoroughly, gave rates of other phone companies and stated that he would return the petition recently signed to any committee appointed at the meeting in case a public hearing was desired. It was decided to apply for a public hearing and the committee to work out details was composed of Mr. Feathers, Mr. Yohr and Ernest Miller.

Roy H. Stanley post of the American Legion sponsored a program in the high school gym, Saturday evening, for the benefit of the unemployed. It was attended by a large crowd and every cent of the proceeds was turned over to a committee who will distribute it among those out of work.

The program consisted of "The Depression Doctors," Duke Kronitz, Frank Eder and Harry Stevens, Tommy Nolan, tap dancer extraordinaire; A. C. Hastings, violin virtuoso; Mrs. John Seffern, violin soprano; Yva Palms Peterson, premiere danseuse; the Famous Harmonizers of WTMJ radio fame, the Russell Bros., with LaVerne Peterson; the Mawallian Players, William Voss, Erwin Handrich and Frank Binder.

Manawa — Manawa high school won its fifth straight game and its third successive Central Wisconsin conference victory by defeating Waupaca 28 to 6 at the armory in that city Friday evening. The home team held the Wolves to a 5 to 5 score at the half, but Manawa came back with a rush in the final two periods to overwhelm the county seat quintet. Waupaca counted only a free throw in the entire last half.

Glocke, junior forward, who has been improving at a rapid rate in recent games, sank seven field goals for Manawa and was high point man of the game. Lindow gathered three field goals and as many free throws from a guard position. Waupaca made out two field goals, both by Henry Johnson in the first quarter, on long attempts from mid-floor. Manawa, league leader, meets Amherst, holder of second place, on the local floor next Friday. Iola defeated Weyauwega 11 to 9 in the only other league contest last week.

200 Attend Meet
Nearly 200 farmers in central Waupaca county attended a meeting in the town hall at Symco, Thursday evening. Fred Oppert acted as chairman and Alvin A. Handrich as secretary.

A talk on livestock shipping was made by A. C. Hoffmann of the University of Wisconsin department of agriculture. He gave figures on the most economical way of shipping as compiled by the state department. R. E. Fisher of the department of markets discussed livestock shipping contracts, after which an open discussion took place.

Following this the following resolution was presented and adopted: Be it resolved, that this meeting of farmers go on record as being in favor of meeting once each month to study various problems, and that a committee of eight be appointed to study the most important topics and report at the next meeting. Named on the committee were Alvin A. Handrich, William Gehlke, Richard Fietzer, Fred Mueske, Gust. Fietzer, Irvin Schoen, Fred Lang and Matt. Kellen.

Another resolution presented by Alvin A. Handrich and then adopted read: Be it resolved that this meeting appoint a committee of five to further study the livestock shipping contract and thoroughly investigate this movement. The committee is composed of William Feathers, Henry Split, Albert Abraham, Edward Yohr and Adam Schilder.

Explains Petition
In a discussion on telephone rates the secretary explained the petition that had been signed by numerous rural subscribers asking for a reduction in rates. L. M. Lamkins, manager of the Manawa Telephone company, explained the situation very thoroughly, gave rates of other phone companies and stated that he would return the petition recently signed to any committee appointed at the meeting in case a public hearing was desired. It was decided to apply for a public hearing and the committee to work out details was composed of Mr. Feathers, Mr. Yohr and Ernest Miller.

Lawrence Begins Big Four Schedule Tonight With Ripon College

CRIMSON GYM IS SCENE OF OPENING TILT

Rafoth May Be Lost to Blue and White Because of Broken Nose

LAWRENCE college basketball quintet will open the 1932 Big Four season tonight when it meets Ripon college five at Ripon. The game does not count in the Midwest conference standings, however. The game at Appleton later in the season is the official Midwest game.

Although Lawrence has played four official games and lost one, that to Marquette and has played one unofficial game against Stevens Point Teachers which it won by a big score, Coach A. C. Denney's aggregation will present a bit of a puzzle tonight.

Saturday afternoon the team battled the alumni and lost the services of Benny Rafoth who picked himself a broken nose. Rafoth has been a key man in the Blue and White line-up and his experience and ability made him mighty valuable.

With Rafoth out "Big Bill" Colbert probably will jump center, a position a bit different from the forward berth in which he has been performing. However, playing center is no new job to Colbert. Bill was laid up most of the week with a strained muscle of some kind or other and just returned to competition Saturday.

With Colbert at center, either Haase or Foote will play forward if the Crimson sees a dire need for height. If the Crimson squad isn't so big he may send one of his smaller forwards into Colbert's position. Bert Hall will occupy the post and Gochmauer and Vanderbloemen probably will get first nod at guard with Foote or Haase in reserve.

There are a half-dozen other boys Denney will take on the trip and any one of them may see action, all of which makes the Lawrence lineup more or less indefinite.

Ripon Defeated by Beloit

Ripon opened conference competition last week and was defeated by Beloit college 31 and 25. However, the defeat does not brand Ripon as an inferior team for Beloit has a tall, rangy outfit this year that is booked to beat a lot of clubs. Red Martin again is coaching the Crimson.

Members of the Crimson squad number a great many veterans from last season, foremost among them one Glenn Johnston who is uncertain with the ball when he's "on" around the hoop.

Lawrence-Ripon games always are thrillers and those on the Crimson count are often better than that. Last year Lawrence won in the Ripon floor for the first time in five years and Coach Art Denney hopes to rub it in again this year. The Vikes also won the second game.

ILLINI CAGERS UPSET PURDUE; BADGERS LOSE

Wildcats Play Iowa Tonight; Michigan Battling With Minnesota

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO (AP)—The "Purdue handicap," which is just another name for the Western conference championship basketball race, goes into its second week tonight with a layout of four games.

The race between the Purdue Boilermakers, almost prohibitive favorites to win the 1932-title, took an unexpected, and very stunning 28 to 21 beating from Illinois. Purdue still is the favorite, but that one game handicap brings plenty of encouragement to the other contenders.

Purdue will entertain Wisconsin tonight and despite its recent misfortune, should defeat the Badgers. Wisconsin dropped its opening game, a 31-30 overtime struggle, to the defending champion Northwestern five, and Saturday night was defeated, 24 to 18, by Michigan.

Northwestern, triumphant in its pair of starts, will meet Iowa at Iowa City, and hopes to grab victory number three tonight. The Wildcats trimmed Indiana, 29 to 23, Saturday night, and might even have done better. The Hoosiers failed to crack the Northwestern defense for a single field goal in the first half, and made a contest out of it only when the victors slowed up in the final session.

Bucks Trip Iowa

Tied with Northwestern today was Ohio State, the outstanding dark-horse of the race. The Buckeyes tripped Illinois in their opener, and Saturday, defeated Iowa. The Hawkeyes, however, proved surprisingly difficult and Ohio had to smother a rousing closing rally to win, 20 to 14.

The top event on tonight's program is Minnesota's meeting with Michigan at Ann Arbor. While the Wolverines were defeating Wisconsin Saturday, Minnesota whipped Chicago, 22 to 14, without going to much trouble. The Maroons held up well in the first period, but were held to three points in the last half. Illinois, which played a great defensive game in upsetting Purdue, will meet Indiana tonight at Bloomington, and looks good for another victory. The Hoosiers have failed to get started this season, losing to Purdue 49 to 30, before bowing to Northwestern Saturday.

WISCONSIN CAGERS CLASH WITH PURDUE

Lost to Wolves Saturday; Wrestlers Beaten, Hockey Six Wins

Madison (AP)—Losers in their first two conference games, Wisconsin's basketball team was in a mood for their first victory tonight when they meet the strong Purdue five.

The defeat of the Boilermakers by Illinois Saturday night instilled hope in the Badgers despite their defeat by Northwestern and Michigan.

Michigan won from Wisconsin 24 to 18 Saturday night. A rally in the second half that netted five baskets in rapid succession gave the Wolverines a lead that the Badgers could not overcome.

During the first half Wisconsin played the strong maize and blue team on even terms, leading 15 to 14 at the half.

The Badgers split even in two other sports Saturday: The wrestling team lost its opening meet of the season to Northwestern 29 to 63. Riley, heavyweight, and Brown, 175-pounder, both conference champions, won their bouts for the Wildcats. Ferguson gave the Badgers their points by winning the 145 pound bout.

The hockey team opened its home season by defeating the Milwaukee rowing club 5 to 1.

Behke's Hilbert (1) . . . 862 939 866—2677

Rud's Place bowlers won two games from the Behke's of Hilbert Sunday on Elk creek alleys. In the first win Loeyslong rolled 221 as the Appleton team won. In the second game a 204 by Guelert and 200 by Gultner gave the Hilbert team a win. The last game went to the Appleton five with 217 by H. Ellis and 212 by O. Strutz. Loeyslong had a 353 series from games of 221, 152 and 199.

The Babe and Golf

BAKE RUTH wants to play that old right field for two more years. Then he will have rounded out 20 years in the big leagues, like Cobb. Speaker and Walter Johnson. After that he would like to play golf. But, can Babe, after 20 years in baseball, give himself up wholeheartedly and exclusively to golf?

Robbie's Cows

There is about as much chance of Babe Ruth devoting himself entirely to golf, after 20 years in the majors, as there is of Uncle Robbie remaining at Brunswick, Ga., and minding the cows after something like a half century in baseball. By the way, there probably will be terrific sighs rending the Georgia twilight pretty soon when the diamond caravans start south to meet the early spring.

Four Rounds, 8 Ounces

Dempsey's proposed "third comeback tour," in which he will meet nine opponents, including Baer, Risiko, Uzcudun and Loughran, sounds like a formidable program. But each

WOLVERINES RALLY IN SECOND HALF; BEAT SPORT QUINT

Delta Hi-Y Paced by Steffen in 28 and 15 Victory Over Betas

THE Wolverines, undefeated leaders in the Y. M. C. A. Older Boys basketball league played the Valley Sports even in the first half of their game Saturday afternoon at the association, and then stepped out in the last half to win by a count of 26 and 8. During the first period the score was 8 all, each team getting four baskets.

In the second half Cavert started hitting the iron for points for the Wolves and scored four field goals. Slattery picked up three and Shannon two, the team holding the Sports scoreless during the second half.

The other game of the afternoon saw the Delta Hi-Y team win easily from the Beta Hi-Y by a score of 28 and 15. Johnston led the scoring for the Deltas in the first half and hit for three baskets. The half ended 12 and 5 for the Deltas. In the second half the Deltas were paced by Steffen with four buckets and they won in a walk.

Tuesday evening three games are on the books. The Wolverines clash with the Pettibones in a game that promises to be a thriller. The A. I. R. five meets the Valley Sports and the Beta Hi-Y team battles the Sam O'Clocks.

ST. NORBERT WINS FROM ST. JOHN, 15-9

DePere Team in Easy Win Over Little Chute Parochial Squad

Little Chute—St. John basketball team was defeated here Sunday afternoon by St. Norbert college team of DePere, 15 to 9. St. Norbert's team took an early lead which it held throughout the game. Early in the game Jemour started the scoring for St. Norbert with a basket from a short shot and this was followed shortly after by another by Simonnet.

After considerable passing in the early part of the second quarter Jemour DePere found the basket and Schimmon was close behind with a fourth score for the visitors, giving them a lead of 8 and 0. Shortly before the half ended Wildenberg scored for Little Chute and the score at the half was 15 to 9.

During the second half Little Chute held its own with the visitors and each team scored seven points to make the final score 15 to 9. The lineups for the teams were: St. Norbert: Jemour, Burke, Schimmon, Block, and Simonnet, substitutes: Huxson, Little Chute: P. Wildenberg, R. Wildenberg, N. Jansen, L. Kroner and A. Hammen, substitutes: Lucassen, Versteegen and Lamers.

APPLETON MERCHANTS BEAT KIMBERLY FIVE

Appleton Merchants of the Older Boys league at the Y. M. C. A. played a non-conference game Saturday morning at the association gym and beat the Kimberly Red Devils by a score of 37 and 19. The count at the end of the first half was 16 and 7 for the Merchants.

App, center on the Merchant team led the scoring with six field goals and a free throw. Gossens paced the Kimberly team with four buckets and a free toss.

KIMBERLY HUMBLER BEAR CREEK, 30-17

Red Devils Will Invade Seymour for This Week's League Game

Kimberly—Coach Harper's Red Devil cagers from Kimberly high school won another conference game when they walloped the Bear Creek aggregation at its own stamping ground Friday evening by a 30 to 17 count.

The Bear Creek lads showed plenty of power at times but were not matched to the offensive machine of the Red Devils. Like all Kimberly games in the past the scoring was divided among the five men and a string of subs who have been seeing action in every game this year.

Hofkins and Gossens, forwards, each scored eight points. Vander Velden a freshman guard six points. The rest of the scoring was divided pretty evenly among other members of the squad.

The small hall at Bear Creek caused the game to become rough at times and as a result 24 personals were committed. 14 by the Kimberly team and 10 by Bear Creek.

Next Friday Kimberly will journey to Seymour. All practice sessions this week for the Red Devils will drill on defense. In recent games losses guarding has given members of the opposition a chance to pile up a big count.

APPLETON Pure Milk company basketball team won its fifth straight game last night in the Industrial league Saturday night but it had a scare that won't be forgotten in a long time. The team won a one point victory from the United Cigars 16 and 15.

In the other game of the evening the dope bucket ran true to form and the Bears trounced the Outagamie Milks by a score of 42 and 22. The Outagamie Milks haven't won a game this season.

The Appleton Pure Milks took a one point lead in the first half, which ended 8 and 3. That lead was the difference in the final score for each team tallied seven points in the last half, three field goals and a gift shot. Versteegen, guard, led the Milks with three buckets.

The Bears found the going mighty easy with the Outagamie Milks and with G. Versteegen hitting the hoop for four baskets in the first half soon had a 23 and 9 lead. In the second half, rather than let up, they continued hitting the hoop and when the final whistle blew the team had made 42 points, 19 field goals and four gift shots. G. Versteegen set the pace with seven field goals.

SMED JOLLEY A. L.'s Best Pinch Hitter Last Year

BY JOHN R. FOSTER Copyright 1932

NEW YORK (CPA)—Big Smed Jolley batted in 13 runs for the Chicago White Sox as a pinch hitter in 1931 which is one record that cannot be taken away from the massive Californian, even if they do try to make a catcher out of him in 1932.

As the next best pinch hitting record was five runs, made by Bib Bakt of Cleveland, it is perfectly obvious that for pinch purposes Jolley was some big bug.

Pinch hitting did not begin in baseball until a rule was adopted which permitted substitution of a player at any time, and there are some who are not sure to this day whether or not that has been a good rule for baseball.

A manager can lift a player from the batting order, from the pitcher's plate from the field or from behind the bat at any time. If that sort of thing had been done in the seventies and the eighties there would have been a melee on the club with the players reading their rights to the manager. To be taken from a ball game was a disgrace and to quit a ball game was almost as bad. If a player got hurt he tried himself up with a string and went on playing.

Jolley's record as a pinch hitter was about the best thing that happened to the Chicago club in 1931, except the victory over the Cubs at the end of the season. It probably had something to do with the deci-

He Forgot

To Say He Was Nice to Mother

New York (AP)—A young man from Philadelphia, name unrevealed, thought the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National league could find a use for his services because he can:

1. Pitch a clever ball game, right hand knuckler.
2. Play the outfield and first base well.
3. Run 100 yards in a little over ten seconds.
4. Hit fairly steady.
5. Steal plenty of bases.
6. Plays every position but catcher.

He added he was just 19 with no bad habits.

"No," said Dave Driscoll, business manager of the Dodgers, "we didn't sign him because he left out one important qualification. He forgot to say whether he was kind to his mother."

SUNSET PASS by Zane Grey

CHAPTER 23
BURLAP SACKS

THE impression of the heel was well defined, but the toe part was dim. It pointed off the road. Rock found another, like the first, not so plain. For his trained eyes the trail might as well have been made in snow. It led into the coarse white grass, to the edge of the culvert, where it vanished.

There was no doubt in Rock's mind that this imprint was identical with the one near Slagle's well. He had the little sticks with which he had measured that track. His instinct prompted him to take a look at the culvert. He walked on, stepping on stones.

The culvert was not the handiwork of masons. The aperture was large, to take care of a considerable flow of water during the wet season. Crude walls of heavy stone had been laid about ten feet high and the same distance apart. Logs and brush had been placed across the top. Above this a heavy layer of earth formed the road.

When Rock stepped into the mouth of the culvert he saw a lump of mud, which at first glance he thought consisted of rocks lying on the dried mud.

A foot track, the one he was trailing, brought a low exclamation from his lips. Bending quickly, with his little sticks he tested them. They fitted perfectly. Moreover, this one had been made recently.

When Rock rose from that track he knew what he was going to find. The tunnel appeared about a hundred feet long, with light shining in at both ends, and the middle dark. The numerous stones on the floor were of uniform size and shape, and he noted that the first of these lay back several yards from the opening of the culvert.

Rock kicked one. It was soft, bending to feel of it and to look at it more closely, he ascertained that it was a burlap sack tied round something. He laughed sardonically.

"Cowhide," he said, and went on, kicking to right and left. These stone-like objects were all hides tied up in burlap sacks. They were old. Some of them were rotting. Then toward the middle of the culvert, where the bags were thickest, he found that those in sight were lying on a bed of bags, flat, decomposed. Altogether, hundreds, perhaps thousands of hides had been destroyed there. He detected a dry, musty odor, but it was not strong.

Rock went back to the point where he had found the boot track. It was useless to attempt to conceal his own trail. He reflected that in a few days now the rains would come, and with water running through the culvert all traces of his having been there would be obliterated.

If fresh coffins had lately been deposited in this hiding-place where were they? Back from the opening it was difficult to see well.

Naturally then he reached up to feel where he could not see. He had to put his toes in crevices between the stones to climb up and reach over the top of the wall.

When Rock's groping hand came in contact with a sack he felt no surprise. It appeared to hold heat. Grasping it firmly, Rock dropped to the ground and hurried with it to the light. He ripped it open. Quicklime, hot and moist. A fresh cowhide, wrappled with hair inside.

Rock unfolded the hide. No slight thing was this proof of somebody's guilt - about to be disclosed! The brand was clear - a half moon. Rock had never heard of it.

Rock sneaked out of that culvert and up to his horses as if indeed he were the guilty one himself. To ferret out rustler tricks and discover evidence of thieving practices on the range, had been part of Rock's experience. How vastly another thing here! That boot track had been made by Ash Preston. Rock knew it. Gage Preston was growing rich by butchering other ranchers' cattle. The very least implication Rock accorded to Thiry Preston was that she shared the secret, and therefore indirectly the guilt. And Rock loved her - loved her terribly now, in view of her extremity.

Rock had no idea how far this extraordinary dealing of the Preston had gone. But it had proceeded far enough to be extremely hazardous for them and in fact for any riders connected with them. One remark Gage had made to Thiry had been thought-provoking. It might well be true that Ash Preston, having led or forced his father into criminal practice, dominated him wholly. Rock must know more, he felt. Possible everything, before he could formulate any plan to stop Preston and save Thiry.

It was long past dark when Rock arrived at Wagontown. He went to the hotel and to bed. Rested and fresh again and with the bright gold sunrise shining in his window, Rock dared to pit himself against Ash Preston in anything. Least of all did he consider Ash particularly dangerous to face in fair gun-play. He was several years younger than Rock and had been only five on the range. Calculating on that, and his own long experience, his instinct for divining an opponent's intent, and his swift hand, Rock felt a certainty of his power to beat Ash Preston to a gun and kill him.

After breakfast, which Rock pertook of rather late, he went round to see So Water.

"Dog-sore, I'm glad to see you!" Winter said.

"Same here, old-timer," replied Rock. "I want to find out something."

"What?" asked Winter, as Rock led him back into the store.

"Preston drove in here a couple of days ago," went on Rock, lowering his voice. "In the outfit were three wagons I know of. One was full of hides, which I helped pack. The other two were loaded with meat. Beesves! Now I want to find out how many beeves there were and where they went."

"Wal, I'll be darned if that ain't funny," ejaculated Winter, his eyes narrowing to mere slits. "I shore can tell you right now that you're so damn keen about knowing."

"Good Lord!" exclaimed Rock, and he sat down heavily.

"Heard it quite by accident," went on Winter. "Jackson, who runs Dabb's butcher shop, once worked for me. Wal, I went in last night. I seen a lot of fresh meat hangin' up. All I said was: 'See you're stockin' up pie an' treatin' the 'Preston is killin' now altogether instead of sellin' any more on the hoof,' Jackson told me. 'He's gettin' thirty dollars more by killin', on each head of stock. He'll sell to anybody. Today he shipped thirty-six beeves, Driscoll told me. Shipped them to Margold.'"

"Thirty-six!" muttered Rock, with unreadable face and voice.

"Yep. An' I counted ten beeves hangin' up on Jackson's hooks. All fresh. So that makes forty-six. What you want to know all this for?"

"Gee, Sol, you're a gabby old lady!" returned Rock. "Who runs the Half Moon brand?"

"Well, mister, I named Hesbit," replied Winter. "Clink Peoples is foreman."

"Clink Peoples. By gum!" that sounds familiar. I've heard his name, anyway. What does he look like, Sol?"

"Onusall tall puncher. Sandy complected. Eyes sharp like a hawk's, but tawny. Always wears a red scarf. An' he's one of the gun-packin' fraternity. Clink will be in town shore over the Fourth."

"Red scarf? Ahum!" said Rock, dropping his head. "Well, Sol, I'll run along, and drop in again."

Reaching Dabb's new store Rock went in. It chanced that there was in stock a black broadcloth suit, with frock coat, which might have been made for him. Rock purchased it and an embroidered vest of fancy design, a white shirt with ruffles in the bosom, a wide white collar and a black flowing bow-tie to go with it.

Rock carried his possessions back to the hotel. While in his room he cut a pattern of a mask out of a piece of black cloth.

What with a late dinner and late sleazings around town the day passed by. After supper Rock went out to walk in the darkness.

Footsteps sounded behind him. A hand seized his arm, and a feminine voice he knew rang under his ear.

"True Rock, I've been on your trail all afternoon." (Copyright, Zane Grey)

The woman who has trailed Rock warns him against the Prestons. Saturday, with new implications.

40 CARS STOCK ARE SHIPPED IN YEAR BY CO-OP

Total Receipts of Center
Valley Association Were
$30,954 in 1931

BY W. F. WINSEY
Center Valley—Reports by Secretary-treasurer Gus J. Sedo, at the annual meeting of the Center Valley Shipping Association, Friday showed the group shipped 40 carsloads of livestock the past year. The shipments included 89 cattle, 823 calves and 1,552 hogs, that the gross receipts were $30,954.91, and that the owners were paid $28,119.70.
From 5 to 6 cents, the same as last year the association decided to pay for loading livestock the present year. The sinking fund will be maintained by a 1 per cent offset from the price received for livestock. The salaries of secretary and shipping managers will remain the same as the past year. It was announced at the meeting that the railroad shipping rates have been reduced from 15 to 25 per cent below the rates of the past year.
Fred Flested who presided at the meeting was elected to succeed himself as president of the association. Other officers were re-elected with one exception, L. J. Nichols was re-elected vice president; Gus J. Sedo, secretary-treasurer; Leo Defferding, shipping manager, Alfred Wirth, assistant shipping manager, and Carl Kitzman, a director for three years. William Laird, Rino Gehl and Dewey Thiel were elected auditors.
The association decided that hereafter all livestock brought to the local stockyard must be paid for before leaving the yards. If overpayments are made corrections will be made later by the ship-manager.
The Central Valley Shipping Association was requested in writing by Hugh Arper, member of the board of directors of Wisconsin Livestock Marketing Federation to contribute financially to settling a case involving a dealer who induced members of a cooperative shipping association to break their contracts with the association. The case, it was stated, may reach the supreme court of Wisconsin. The meeting authorized the directors to use their own judgment with respect to the contribution. County Agent G. A. Sell explained that the case is similar to one of the tobacco pool, in which dealers combined to break the contract of the members of the pool in the courts and failed. The Wisconsin cooperative law places a heavy penalty on the dealer as well as a member of a cooperative when a contract is broken.
See Bitter Fight
Livestock shipping cooperatives will be as bitterly fought in this state as they have been in the past, said Mr. Sedo, who has been much to break up these cooperatives and on account of your location here your cooperative may be in some danger.
"As a result of truck invasion 70 out of 210 shipping associations reporting, have gone out of business since 1923. You should be on the lookout for truck trouble. To be on the safe side you might want to combine to watch the development of the trucking business to make a study of the livestock cooperative shipping contract and to call a meeting to consider the contract if necessary."
"A movement is on foot to induce all livestock shipping associations to join a state federation," said Mr. Sell. "Your group might consider joining this federation at a later meeting."

Your Birthday

BY MARY BLAKE
"CAPRICORN"

If January 12th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 6:35 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11:35 p. m. The day periods are from 10:00 a. m. to 11:40 a. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9:45 p. m.
An ordinary day and the carrying out of routine duties and pre-conceived plans is augured for January 12th. Man's will more than Destiny will be the moulder of events. A time of fertile ideas for those who wield the pen, and publicity men and journalists are in for more than the usual success.
Children born on this January 12th will be precocious and will soon decifer babyish ways. They will be courageous and strong-hearted, resourceful and intellectual. They will be generous and affectionate, and will get along well with their associates.
Readers born on January 12th will have quiet, plodding natures, and will come by their rewards through sheer hard work, indomitable perseverance, and a quality of intellect which, moving slowly and deliberately, attains a sure and successful end. Others score through brilliant play, daring feats and lightning appreciation of opportunity, but you must do things with deliberation and less spectacular methods. Your staying qualities, your accuracy, and absolute dependability are of more value in many positions than more originality and speed. You are not mean to fill in inferior role, but it may be one behind the scenes.
You do not haggle with life and you do not dispute with inevitable happenings. You take your problems as they come each day and solve each in the best way you know. You carry on a rational life in a philosophical and fairly happy way. You do not brood over your misfortunes, but try to "carry on" with at least an outward smile. You are not given to introspection, and your mind's energy, generally speaking, is directed outward, not inward.
If you are a man, you have an inherent and temperamental shyness in the presence of women. You are fearful of the power and influence they exert upon your life. You are by nature a man's man.
Successful People Born January 12th:

Free Lance Knife Hurler Still Hollywood's Best

Hollywood, Calif. —(P)— After 15 years Steve Clemente is still the sharpest blade in pictures. The movie salary cuts have had no effect on screenland's foremost wielder of knives.
He still gets anywhere from $50 to $100 for a job, according to whether the "job" is for a star or a lesser actor.
The villain of a hair-raising movie may look daggers at the hero, but it is Steve who throws them for him. Sometimes it is butcher knives, or hatchets, but it doesn't make any difference to Steve.
He just misses being the village cut-up, and that's what he is paid for—just missing.
This sturdy Mexican Indian, on whose keenness of eye and sureness of hand have depended the lives of most of Hollywood's great at one time or another, about 15 years ago brought to pictures his skill with the knife, acquired as a boy when he was a pony herder in Mexico.
He was in the Universal Stock company, at $35 a week. Steve was being lent for his specialty to other studios, so he decided to go out on his own and make more. He has been free-lancing ever since.
He gets more if it is a big star he must "just miss" with his knife than if it is an extra or bit player.
"If a big star should imagine that I have hurt him and set up a howl," then my reputation is hurt, so I charge more for this risk."

The only mishap he has ever had, he says, came because his target, supposed to be fleeing him as he threw, because so frightened he tried to outrun Steve's knife, and leaped into the air unexpectedly. The injury even then was slight.
In "Her Cardboard Lover," the new Buster Keaton picture, Steve had to throw a knife at Gilbert Roland in such a manner as to barely miss his ear as it struck the wall beyond. Roland took the scene without flinching.
William Boyd had to walk through an open door for "Sky Devils," another new one, the appearance of his nose being the cut for Steve's knife to fly, landing within three inches from his face. For "The Honorable Mr. Wong," Steve's skill with a hatchet meant a lot to Edward G. Robinson, the star.
"Women, if they will serve as targets at all," says Steve, "are scared of him."
"Gary Cooper would stand by the hour letting me cut cigars out of his mouth by throwing knives. Said he got a thrill out of it. And Joan Crawford and Aileen Pringle, too, used to get a kick out of the danger involved."

"Joint" Wife Is Arrested For Bigamy

Milwaukee—(P)— Two men who loved the same woman, married the same woman and were husbands at the same time have met here and have become fast friends.
The woman, now that they have compared notes, is in jail while the state prepares a bigamy action.
The husbands are Salvatore Cerniglia, 27, a sheet metal worker, and Fred Himmelstein, who says his profession is that of a marriage dancer. Their wife, whom they thought to be 25, but who turned out to be 32, a divorcee and mother of two children is held under the name of Agnes Cerniglia. Officers said her maiden name was Agnes Neith, and that she was divorced 12 years ago from a man named McGuire.
Coming into the detective bureau arm in arm, Cerniglia and Himmelstein told their stories. Cerniglia met her on a downtown street in Chicago, and it was a case of love at first sight, he said. They were married in January, 1931. "She has Himmelstein met her last July when she was in a rocking chair contest in a Milwaukee marathon competition. "We were married in a few weeks, and we fixed up an apartment," said Himmelstein.

"With my money," Cerniglia added and both grinned.
The husbands met when Cerniglia looked for his wife. Himmelstein invited Cerniglia to his home in Milwaukee, and for the time being they are living together.
The woman was found in an east side apartment. Both men identified her.

PREPARE BOXES TO FEED PHEASANTS

Kaukauna Sportsmen to Help Care for Birds During Winter

Kaukauna—Members of the Outagamie Fish and Game Protective association and the Izaak Walton league here are preparing feed boxes to be placed on the pheasant reserve here. When snow covers the ground the pheasants are unable to find food, and the sportsmen place the feed boxes about the reserve to save the birds from starving. The reserve was established several years ago, and there now are about 4,000 birds on the reserve, according to Louis Miller of the Izaak Walton league. The season here is closed for pheasants hunting and the birds are becoming more numerous each year. There has been little trouble with hunters molesting the pheasants and as a result the flocks have become tame. A fine will be imposed on persons molesting the birds, according to the league members.

Washington Society Quiet After Passing Of Holidays

BY DOROTHEA J. LEWIS (Post-Crescent's Washington Society Editor)

Washington—The national capital settled back with something akin to a sigh of relief last week and no longer had merely to gaze with longing at those comfortable carpet slippers, discarded during the holiday weeks for patent leather pumps and teetering French heels. It put them on.

Despite the general quiet of the week there were a few things doing, and next week's meeting of the board of directors and officers of the General Federation of Women's Clubs is being anticipated.

Instead of following her nice systematic schedule and returning home for a quiet, usual Christmas in Washington, Miss Rahel Davies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, formerly of Madison, cabled her mother that she was bound for Cairo and the glamorous land of Egypt. She is the guest in Cairo of the American "Envoy extraordinary and Minister plenipotentiary" William M. Jardine and his family. Mr. Davies, who had been in Vienna with his daughter, may also

SCHOOLS PREPARE FOR WRITTEN EXAMINATIONS

Kaukauna—Preparations for first semester examinations on Jan. 28 and 29 are being made at all of the public schools here. Students will start the final semester's work on Monday, Feb. 1. Reports of the first semester will be issued Wednesday noon, Feb. 3.

MILITARY STUDENTS MEET THIS EVENING

Kaukauna—Major Olin G. Dryer will conduct another class for students of the summer Citizen Military Training camps in the high school library Monday evening, Jan. 13. The work studied at these classes will aid the students in their examination for commissions at the camps next summer. Eight students are enrolled in the course.

MANY FARMERS ATTEND MONTHLY PIG FAIR

Kaukauna—More than 500 farmers attended the monthly pig fair here Saturday morning under auspices of the Tri-county Fair association. Merchants offered the usual bargains for fair day shoppers. Another of the fairs will be held Saturday, Feb. 13.

GOES TO CONFERENCE

Kaukauna—Jerome Koch of the Feller Plumbing Co. is attending the fifth annual statewide conference of the plumbing industry at the Hotel Prister in Milwaukee. John Ditter of the Ditter and Son Plumbing and Heating Co. also may attend.

have gone or be going to Egypt, although his family is not sure yet. In Vienna he has been trying an arbitration case in which his client is an Egyptian and a trip to Egypt may become a business duty for him.

Mrs. Maud Troxell, dean of women at the University of Wisconsin, who has been visiting Mrs. Frank Hallauer in Washington and her brother, John Troxell in Baltimore, has now returned to Madison.

Miss Katherine Lenroot, formerly of Superior, made a radio address Tuesday morning as part of her work as assistant chief of the children's bureau.

Mrs. Gardner Withrow of La Crosse made her first appearance in the national capital as a congressional lady after the holidays. Because of illness, she did not accompany the new Wisconsin congressman to Washington early in December.

Mrs. John J. Blaine was one of the hostesses at the Congressional club's Friday afternoon tea. The guests were entertained by a piano recital in which Miss Betta Baum and Mrs. Clara Bernheimer were the guest artists.

Tea dances for children and grandchildren of members of the club began their series of 18 tea dances on Saturday. The youngsters, between 8 and 14 years of age will meet each Saturday from 3:30 to 5 o'clock, and will have Miss Evelyn Davis, pupil of Mary Wigman and Ruth St. Denis, as their instructor in modern dancing. Mrs. John C. Schafer is managing the series, and has issued most attractive invitations.

News has been received in Washington of the marriage on Jan. 2 in Greenwich, Conn., of Miss Betty Umore, daughter of Mrs. George Utz of Appleton, to Crosby Noyes Boyd of Washington.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, wore a plain silver white satin gown and carried calla lilies. She was attended by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. James Vaughn of Greenwich. A small reception at the home of the groom's mother followed the ceremony.

and then the couple left for a honeymoon in Havana, Cuba, and Miami, Fla. Upon their return they will make their home at 1809 Q St., Washington.

Miss Umore is a graduate of the Milwaukee-Dowder seminary and also attended Milwaukee-Dowder college. Mr. Boyd graduated from Princeton, class of '24. A member of the staff of the Washington Star, he belongs to the Princeton club of New York, and the Chevy Chase club of the national capital.

The news of the birth of twin sons on Thursday, Dec. 31, to Mr. and Mrs. Chris Christensen in Madison, Wis., was received with great interest in Washington. Mrs. Christensen was well known. Mrs. Christensen was before her marriage, Miss Cora March, daughter of the Federal Trade Commissioner and Mrs. Charles Hoyt March. Mr. Christensen resigned as secretary of the Federal Farm Board to accept his present post as Dean of the College of Agriculture at the University of Wisconsin.

Mrs. William F. Notz, formerly of Watertown, included two interesting "at homes" in her week's engagement list. Sunday she was a guest at the tea given by the Nicaraguan Minister and Senora de Sacasa, and Monday was a guest of Mrs. Merchant Mahoney, wife of the First Secretary of the Canadian Legation.

The Japanese Ambassador and Mme. Debuchi have been entertaining almost constantly since their moving into the new home of the Embassy, one of the handsomest and most dignified residences in Washington's newest embassy row. Their latest entertainment was a dinner party for a distinguished company with the dean and doyenne of the Diplomatic Corps, the Ambassador of Italy and Dona Antonietta de Martino as ranking guests.

Wisconsin people among the guests were General Douglas MacArthur, Mrs. George Barnett, widow of General Barnett of Escobedo, and Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck, who took his degree at the University of Wisconsin.

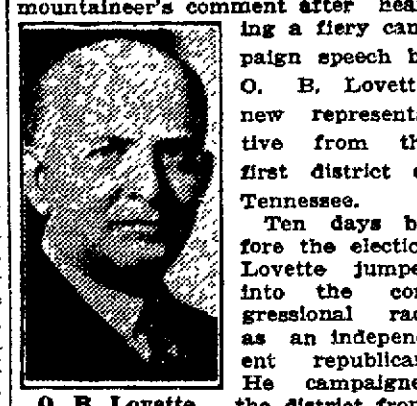

WHO'S NEW IN CONGRESS

Oscar B. Lovette

Greenville, Tenn. — (AP) — "The old bird sure can put out," was a mountaineer's comment after hearing a fiery campaign speech by O. B. Lovette, new representative from the first district of Tennessee.

Ten days before the election Lovette jumped into the congressional race as an independent republican. He campaigned the district from the back end of an automobile, making 35 speeches in seven days.

With a brass band and a motorcade he visited 14 towns the day before election.

STOP THAT COLD

DISTRESSING cold in chest or throat—that so often leads to something serious—generally responds to good old Muterole with the first application. Should be more effective if used once every hour for five hours. This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally. Muterole gets action because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses. To Mothers—Muterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Muterole.
